CETA Investment Law - Article-by-Article Commentary

This article-by-article Commentary on the Canada-European Union Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) is a vital resource for practitioners and academics in the field of EU investment protection law. CETA has been called a game-changer. In the investment chapter, it has introduced a number of key innovations, including; investment court system with an appellate tribunal; guidelines on third party funding; transparency and information sharing; modern versions of standards of protection; detailed provisions on reservations and exceptions. Considering that the new dispute resolution provisions in this chapter have also passed the scrutiny of the Court of Justice of the European Union, it is expected that CETA's investment chapter will serve as a blueprint for future EU investment agreements.

the EU and its Member States' Joint Participation in International Agreements

Assesses how EU law has been adapted to cope with the constraints of international law in situations in which the EU and its Member States act jointly in relations with other States and international organisations. In an innovative scholarly approach, reflecting this duality, each chapter is jointly written by a team of two authors. The various contributions offer new insights into the tension that continues to exist between EU and international law obligations in relation to the (joint) participation of the EU and its Member States in international agreements.

EU External Relations Law - the Cases in Context Analyses and contextualises the entire breadth of the jurisprudence of EU external relations law through a systematic, case-by-case account of the field. The entire framework of EU external relations law has been built from the ground up by the jurisprudence of the Court of Justice of the EU. At the beginning of the field's emergence, the legal questions to be answered concerned the division of powers and competence between, firstly, the Member States and that of the Union; and secondly, the division of powers and competence between the different institutions of the Union. Questions on such matters continue to be asked, but more contemporarily, new legal questions have arisen that have been in need of adjudication, including questions concerning the autonomy of Union law; the relationship between the Union and other international organisations; the relationship between Union law and international law; the scope and breadth of international agreements; amongst others.

MARE LIBERVM - opnieuw vorm gegeven

Zeeën en Oceanen kunnen naar hun aard niet het bezit zijn van één natie en staan daarom open voor iedereen die wil reizen of handel drijven. Hugo de Groot was in 1609 de eerste die dit als zodanig verwoordde. Mare Liberum vormt samen met het Engelse De Mare Clausum (Over de gesloten zee, waarin wordt gepleit voor het recht van oeverstaten) de basis voor het internationaal zeerecht. Het opstel is eigenlijk onderdeel van De Indis (Van de Indiën) dat echter pas in 1864 is ontdekt en in 1868 uitgegeven onder de titel De Iure Praedae (Van het recht op buit) omdat {?} daarin ook wordt gepleit voor het recht om schepen in beslag te nemen van een land waarmee men in oorlog is. Aanleiding was dan ook de inbeslagname van een Portugees schip in de straat van Malakka door Jacob van Heemskerck. Dit is een bewerking van het exemplaar en de vertaling van de Koninklijke Bibliotheek Den Haag: KB, 893 G 6.

Modernizing the Role of the International Court of Justice

Discusses threats such as climate change, environmental degradation and pandemics, and argues that in future the ICJ will need to carry out judicial, security and protection functions as it is the only organ of the United Nations that can discharge such functions in view of its independence and expertise. Proposes that the ICJ can apply a hitherto unused jurisdictional provision in Article 36 of its statute that allows it to deal with "All Matters Specially Provided for in the UN Charter" and presents three examples of issues that would require the urgent attention of the ICJ: vaccine equity in a global pandemic, climate disaster, and mass movements of people across frontiers due to climate change and environmental degradation.

National Courts and Preliminary References to the Court of Justice

'Rechters denken niet altijd juridisch bij de toepassing van EU-recht' Waarom stellen nationale rechters vragen aan het Hof van Justitie van de EU en wat vinden zij van de antwoorden?

Jasper Krommendijk, universitair hoofddocent internationaal en Europees recht aan de Radboud Universiteit, zien dat rechters een veelheid aan motieven hebben bij hun besluit om vragen over het EU-recht te stellen aan het Hof in Luxemburg. Het klassieke beeld is dat nationale rechters slechts de wet toepassen bij het toepassen van EU-recht en zich beperken tot louter juridische overwegingen. Dit komt niet geheel overeen met de werkelijkheid. Krommendijk bestudeerde honderden prejudiciële uitspraken en interviewde hij 88 rechters uit drie (voormalige) EU-Lidstaten.

Outer Space Law - Legal Policy and Practice

Outer space has become a congested environment. The involvement of private actors, specifically, has given rise to a number of legal issues, including questions pertaining to liability, insurance, space debris, human rights and property rights in space. To address these legal uncertainties, the existing chapters in the second edition of Outer Space Law: Legal Policy and Practice have been updated significantly and several new chapters have been added dealing with topical issues including: the regulation of satellite navigation systems, and satellite constellations;the application of human rights in outer space settlements;the exploration and colonisation of outer space; andplanetary protection.

Preparing for War: The Making of the Geneva Conventions

The 1949 Geneva Conventions are the most important rules for armed conflict ever formulated. To this day they continue to shape contemporary debates about regulating warfare, but their history is often misunderstood. The final text of the Conventions, far from being an unabashedly liberal blueprint, was the outcome of a series of political struggles among the drafters. It also concerned a great deal more than simply recognizing the shortcomings of international law revealed by the experience of war. In many different ways, they tried to define the contours of future battlefields by deciding who deserved protection and what counted as a legitimate target. Outlawing illegal conduct in wartime did as much to outline the concept of humanized war as to establish the legality of waging war itself.

Establishes that although they did not seek war, the Conventions' drafters prepared for it by means of weaving a new legal safety net in the event that their worst fear should materialize.

Artificial Intelligence and Autonomous Shipping – Developing the International Legal Framework

Critically evaluates the legal framework necessary for the use of autonomous ships in international waters. The work is divided into three parts: Part 1 evaluates how far national shipping regulation, and the public international law background that lies behind it, may need modification and updating to accommodate the use of autonomous ships on international voyages. Part 2 deals with private law and insurance issues such as collision and pollution liability, salvage, limitation of liability and allocation of risk between carrier and cargo interests. Part 3 analyses international convention regimes dealing with maritime safety and other matters, arguing for specific changes in the existing conventions such as SOLAS and MARPOL, which would provide the international framework that is necessary for putting autonomous ships into commercial use. Takes the view that amendment of international conventions is important in the case of liability issues, arguing that leaving such matters to national law, particularly issues concerning product liability, could not only restrict or hinder the availability of liability insurance but also hamper the development of this technology.

Assessing the European Commission's Legislative Cycle

De Europese Commissie heeft in haar wetgevingsbeleid de nadruk gelegd op het idee dat wetgeving geen lineair traject is dat begint bij A en eindigt bij B, maar eerder een cirkel lijkt, waarin de resultaten van de evaluatie bij B worden gebruikt als informatie voor een nieuwe effectbeoordeling bij A. Welke problemen kunnen zich voordoen als men probeert de instrumenten van effectbeoordeling en evaluatie aan elkaar te koppelen?

Competition Law of the European Union

Provides a comprehensive and up-to-date analysis of the EU competition rules as developed primarily by the Commission, the General Court and the Court of Justice. The new Sixth Edition of a major work by the well-known competition law team at Van Bael & Bellis in Brussels brings the book up to date to take account of the many developments in the case law and relevant legislation that have occurred since the Fifth Edition in 2010. The developments in EU competition law that have occurred have been largely incremental rather than momentous. The authors have also taken the opportunity to write a much-extended chapter on private enforcement and a dedicated section on competition law in the pharmaceutical sector. There has been significant change since the last edition with major cases and other developments in areas such as merger review procedure and cartel enforcement, and this edition will follow the successful format of previous editions covering these developments.

Credit Rating Agency Liability in Europe - Rating the combination of EU and national law in rights of redress

The credit rating industry called for many debates on its civil liability since the origin of the industry at the beginning of the twentieth century. In 2013, the Union legislature introduced a right to damages, which issuers and investors can directly enforce against credit rating agencies under Article 35a CRA Regulation. This provision has drawn attention because of its remarkable structure: Article 35a CRA Regulation introduced a legal ground for civil liability at the European level, while general tort law has not been harmonised at the European level. Investigates Article 35a CRA Regulation from multiple legal perspectives. Combines EU law, Private International Law and Dutch, French, German and English national private law and answers the main question of whether Article 35a CRA Regulation achieves its post-crisis goal of being an adequate right of redress for issuers and investors whilst it has to be interpreted under various systems of national law. Answers this question, taking a broader European approach and also rates the usefulness of Article 35a CRA Regulation as a European template for civil liability to be used by the Union legislature.

Drones are extremely versatile and capable of performing a wide variety of applications. However, applicable regulations are still lagging behind in technological progress and volume growth. Provides an in-depth study on prevailing drone law and policy in order to achieve a seamless integration of drone technology into the legal order of civil aviation. The drone market largely depends on the successful implementation of such a comprehensive international regulatory framework that will allow for safe, secure and environmentally friendly operations, while technologies must be mature enough to ensure full integration of drones into non-segregated airspace in the foreseeable future. Monitoring, evaluating and analysing drone operations is a continuous and systematic process, generating knowledge and best practices.

the External Dimension of the EU's Policy against Trafficking in Human Beings

Through this policy the EU institutions and Member States promote the eradication of human trafficking and support, to that end, cooperation with their partners, being third States or international organisations. Analyses the unilateral and multilateral mechanisms the EU uses to achieve these aims. Questions whether the EU's external response to human trafficking addresses it in all its dimensions, and whether it does so in a coherent way. A case study explores cooperation of the EU with countries of the Western Balkans, which constitutes a specific unilateral mechanism. The analysis of the multilateral mechanisms covers the cooperation of the EU with key international and regional organisations combating human trafficking, including but not limited to the Council of Europe or the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime. Also examines the impact of the evolution of migration flows and the increasing reliance of military tools on the EU's response to human trafficking.

Insider Trading and Market Manipulation in the European Wholesale Energy Markets – REMIT (EU Energy Law - Volume X)

Regulation (EU) No 1227/2011 of the European Parliament and of the Council on Wholesale Energy Market Integrity and Transparency ('REMIT') entered into force on 28 December 2011. REMIT introduces two fundamental prohibitions, on insider trading and market manipulation, and a series of disclosure and other obligations on companies active in the wholesale markets for electricity and gas in the EEA, which the Agency for Cooperation of European Regulators ('ACER') has been developing since, in consultation with various stakeholders. Describes the relationship between the REMIT and the European financial regulations, such as MAD, EMIR, MiFID II and MiFIR, which inspired its drafting. Explains the interplay between the REMIT and EU Competition law with regard to the concept of market abuse and the obligation to disclose inside information. Provides an overview of the rules governing the trading on wholesale energy products in the USA, their scope, functioning, enforcement and a comparison with the corresponding provisions of the REMIT. Contains a short discussion of the EU Commission's draft proposal for a Regulation on Indices Used as Benchmarks in Financial Instruments and Financial Contracts and its possible implications for the energy industry.

State Aid in Times of Crisis - An overview of all EU state aid Law developments as a result of Covid-19

The first thorough overview of the many European State aid developments that were brought into acceleration during the COVID-19 outbreak and the ensuing economic crisis. In order to efficiently mitigate the (potentially) disturbing effects the COVID-19 crisis has on the European internal market, the European Commission imposed new State aid regulations and extended existing rules. The Commission's most essential legal framework in this regard became the Temporary Framework for State aid measure to support the economy in the current COVID-19 outbreak. The author extensively discusses the various State aid instruments within this Temporary Framework, its background, its implications and the practical implementation. In addition to providing an overview of this Temporary Framework, the volume elaborates on the Commission's practical interpretation of existing legal provisions in light of COVID-19 related State aid and on several (sector-specific) guidance documents published by the Commission. Sluit aan op de eerdere uitgave "Staatssteun – handboek voor de praktijk" (van A.Knook).

Visrechten en Verhandelbaarheid in Nederland en Europa

Onderzoekt en beschrijft ontstaan, ontwikkeling en werking van het gemeenschappelijk visserijbeleid en gevolgen van verhandelbaarheid van visrechten. Het gevolg van deze handel in individuele visquotums is dat steeds meer visrechten in eigendom komen van een steeds kleiner wordende groep (vermogende) vissers, zoals grote rederijen, verwerkers en handelskantoren. Dit leidt tot een absolute machtspositie van enkele grote partijen in de visserijsector. In het Europese mededingingsrecht is een machtspositie op zich niet verboden, tenzij er misbruik van wordt gemaakt. Daarnaast is de invloed van de visserijsector op de producenten en brancheorganisaties en de nongouvernementele organisatie (NGO) van belang. Tevens strekt deze invloed zich uit tot het overheidsbeleid. Deze invloed is zo groot, dat dit leidt tot kennisverlies op de departementen, de zogenoemde 'capture of the regulator'. Dit betekent dat enkele grote visserijbedrijven in combinatie met de producenten en brancheorganisaties en de NGO zowel het nationale als het EU-visserijbeleid bepalen. Verschafft gedetailleerde juridische oplossingen voor deze problematiek die simpel en doeltreffend zijn.

Building Blocks for the Development of an International Framework for the Governance of Space Resource Activities

The development of space resources activities is happening now. In the absence of a clear framework to govern these activities there is a need to formulate such a framework in line with existing treaty obligations, in order to enable, support and coordinate the use of space resources in a manner that is acceptable for all stakeholders. Provides a unique and comprehensive coverage of the work of The Hague International Space Resources Governance Group, established in 2016 with the purpose of assessing the need and laying the groundwork for such a framework. The Commentary contains text, explanation, legal basis and alternatives discussed for each of the 20 Building Blocks that were adopted by the Working Group in 2019 and that could form part of a future governance framework for space resource activities. *T.Masson-Zwaan e.a.(red.) the Causes of War - Volume IV: 1650 - 1800

This is the fourth volume of a projected six-volume series charting the causes of war from 3000 BCE to the present day, written by a leading international lawyer, and using as its principal materials the documentary history of international law, largely in the form of treaties and the negotiations which led up to them. These volumes seek to show why millions of people, over thousands of years, slew each other. In departing from the various theories put forward by historians, anthropologists and psychologists, the author offers a different taxonomy of the causes of war, focusing on the broader settings of politics, religion, migrations and empire-building. These four contexts were dominant and often overlapping justifications during the first four thousand years of human civilisation, for which written records exist. A.Gillespie (HART- 9781509912179) november 2020 504 pag. geb. ca. € 155,00 Eerder verschenen:

Complicity of States in the International Illicit

Analysis and its purpose is to identify the main hypotheses of states responsibility in connection with organizations activities, adopting the perspective of system protection established by the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR) on which the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) supervises. The results to which the ECtHR has come have been extensively examined in the relevant literature. Therefore, after having reconstructed the main liability hypotheses emerged in the ECtHR jurisprudence and the critical points connected to them (section I), we will investigate new arguments to ascribe responsibility to member states on the basis of different titles, not yet explored or otherwise not still consolidated in ECtHR jurisprudence. We remain also, in the analysis of new interpretive trends with regard to the standard of proof for the attribution to the state of unequivocal conduct of liability through international jurisprudence in comparison with various courts of various statutes and different attributions that remain always under the same level of punishment for international responsibility. Final, an inductive approach, with the aim, on the one hand, of highlighting the concrete results achieved in the field of defense and peacekeeping, and, on the other, of providing possible contributions with respect to the issues raised above, in particular what the impact of international law is under the Common Security and Defense Policy and the Common Foreign and Security Policy and how it is possible to configure the responsibility of the European Union and/or the participating States to international crimes committed in the performance of the various operations.

Corporate Environmental Accountability in International Law

Examines systematically all international sources of corporate accountability standards with specific reference to environmental protection, and elaborates on their theoretical and practical implications for international environmental law. Argues that although international environmental law does not bind multinational corporations and other business entities, growing practice points to the emergence and consolidation of international legal standards. These standards allow adapting and translating inter-State obligations embodied in international environmental law into specific normative benchmarks to determine the legitimacy of the conduct of the private sector against internationally recognized values and rules. The role of international organizations who, in the absence of State intervention, identify and promote the application of selected international environmental standards is analyzed in depth. Demonstrates how these international organizations are a driving force in establishing and operationalizing international standards for corporate environmental accountability.

Customs Law of the European Union

Practical overview of the customs and trade laws of the EU. The new edition takes into account the recent entry into force of the Union Customs Code (EU Reg. No. 952/2013 of 9 October 2013 – UCC), declining all the procedural and substantive innovations. The text contemplates the global reconsideration of the customs relationship due to the introduction of the new Union institutes and special regimes, as well as the electronic clearance systems ECS (Export Control System) and EMCS (Excise Movement Control System), on the subject of excise duties. Great importance was still given to the peculiarities of the AEO (Authorized Economic Operator) regime and to the exclusive opportunities that now the particular status – together with that of CTP (Certified Taxable Person) will be able to grant only to companies certified in international transactions, due to the new provisions of the UCC. Illustrates practical cases on controversial aspects of the application of the Union rule, such as royalties on imports, the regulation of 'virtual' deposits, the determinations of origin. The discipline of 'made in', also for the new criticalities induced by the so-called Trade Wars is examined with a view to highlighting the opportunities granted by the Union rules to overcome the protective duties placed on goods from certain countries in trade conflict. The criticalities of the movement of goods with preferential origin are also examined. Contemplates the operational solutions for the customs reconciliation of Transfer Pricing adjustments, advocated by the World Customs Organization and the International Chamber of Commerce. With regard to the Union landscape, the text offers insights on the issues of Brexit and Quick Fixies in the field of Community VAT.

Specific case studies show that courts and tribunals have made significant contributions to key legal concepts, as well as filling regulatory gaps left by UNCLOS.

the Energy Charter Treaty

The Energy Charter Treaty (ECT) provides a multilateral framework for energy cooperation through the operation of more open and competitive energy markets, while respecting the principles of sustainable development and sovereignty over energy resources. This is an in-depth, article-by-article commentary on all aspects of the Treaty and is essential for the large number of investors who are resorting to the protection of the ECT. The first part provides a conceptual overview of the law and economics of cartels; the second part describes the central legal analysis in cartel cases; the third part summarises the regulatory process in cartel investigations; and the fourth part deals with civil damages.

EU Citizenship at the Edges of Freedom of Movement

Critically analyses the case law on EU citizenship in relation to its personal free movement rights, its status on the primary law level, and EU fundamental rights protection. Exposes the legal space where EU citizenship variably loses or gains legal relevance, and questions how this space can be overcome through a thorough analysis of the core personal free movement rights of residence, family reunification, equal treatment and equal political participation. Demonstrates how the development of the case law of the Court of Justice of the EU has generated a two-tiered legal concept of EU citizenship. Depending on the nature of the legal claim at hand, EU citizenship may appear as a poor legal personhood for exercising free movement rights; sometimes pushing the individual who is in a factual cross-border situation out of the scope of Union law. Contrastingly, in other strands of the jurisprudence, we see EU citizenship and its primary law levelled-rights stretch the jurisdictional scope of Union law, triggering the EU's Charter of Fundamental Rights for review of the individual case.

EU Digital Law - Article-by-Article Commentary

The European Commission adopted its Digital Single Market Strategy in May 2015. Three years later, legislative measures are emerging which aim to tackle the unique legal problems arising from the supply of digital content and which will shape the development of national and European law in the future. The Digital Content Directive is set to play a central role in this development. Its provisions on conformity and remedies for non-conforming digital content concern the heart of the protection for the consumer. Its rules will not only have to be transposed into national law over the coming years but will also interact with existing provisions from the Consumer Rights Directive 2011/83/EU, the E-Commerce Directive 2000/31/EU, and the Portability Regulation 2017/1128 in order for the legal framework on the supply of digital content to function. Contains an in-depth, article-by-article analysis of core provisions concerning the supply of digital content: from the pre-contractual information duties and cancellation rights to conformity and portability of digital content. Comments give not only detailed explanations of the background and purpose of the provisions in order to assist interpretation, but also indicate potential difficulties and solutions in order to ease transposition and implementation of the rules on the supply of digital content.

EU Law - Treaties and Legislation / Europees Recht - Verdragen en Wetgeving a bilingual compilation / een tweetalige verzameling

Studying EU law at Dutch Universities and Hogescholen is an intellectual challenge but also a linguistic challenge. Whilst, in practice, the application of EU law in front of Dutch courts will take place in Dutch, many EU law courses at Dutch Universities or Hogescholen are taught in English or lecturers of these courses prescribe English-language textbooks although the course itself is held in Dutch. Dutch students of EU law must therefore master this subject in both languages: Dutch and English. Offers a bilingual compilation of the most important EU law texts (the EU Treaties and the most important EU regulations and directives). Texts in English and Dutch are featured next to each other in form of a synopsis.

Recent years have seen significant evolution in European Commission's approach to State aid policy. Analyses enforcement of State Aid law in the aftermath of State aid Modernization initiative, identifying a number of emerging trends at both national and EU level. Unpacks recent developments that have contributed to decentralization of the enforcement of State Aid law, including the General Block Exemption Regulation which allows a larger number of aid schemes to be implemented by national authorities without prior notification to the European Commission. Also considers the increasing role of national courts in the enforcement of State aid rules, as well as the Commission's current reliance on State Aid policy to pursue common objectives of EU interest, thus shaping a de facto EU industrial policy.

European Court Procedure - a Practical Guide

The new Rules of Procedure of the General Court, in force as of 2015, as well as the reform of the General Court and the re-establishment of a two-tier EU judiciary in September 2016 are the last bricks in the post-Lisbon legal structure governing litigation before the EU Courts. Covers the already sizeable case-law developed after the completion of these reforms and explains the changes in the Courts' practice entailed by them. Gives a detailed and practice-oriented overview of the whole spectrum of litigation procedure before the EU judiciary. Also presents the entire system of judicial avenues that enable litigants to enforce their rights under EU law against European institutions, Member States or private parties.

European Energy Studies Volume XIV - The European Energy Transition: An Agenda for the Twenties

Reflects on the latest policy developments, as such as the Clean Energy for All Europeans Package, the Green Deal and the Climate Law. The energy transition is Europe's flagship projects. It needs to provide sound answers to the climate and sustainability-, security of supply- and competitiveness imperatives. The energy transition corresponds to a large scale economic and cultural change. It encompasses sector coupling- linking up sectors that have ignored each other previously, like mobility and power. What is the meaning of digitalization, and how to face cybersecurity risks? Can Europe deliver a 50-55% decrease in Greenhouse Gas Emissions, as is the agenda of the new von der Leyen Commission? This 2nd edition is not only updated, but also augmented with three new chapters : the first focusses on a European cross border carbon adjustment proposal. This mechanism is a center piece in the European Green Deal and as such debated intensively. Two other chapters present the value-add and next steps for European network codes and guidelines. Analyses the factors driving change: where are we on climate and sustainability, competitiveness and market, and security of supply? Presents the actors: what genesis of and what contemporary institutions for European energy policy, how is energy addressed by the national and by the European; what about the active customer paradigm and the many startups and business models changing, as well as NGOs? Investigates sectors: power, gas, mobility and the powerful push from digitalization. S.Nies (ed.) (C&C- 9789077644713) 2^e dr. mei 2020 604 pag. geb. € 92,65

the European Free Trade Association - an Intergovernmental Platform for Trade Relations
Introduction into the EFTA as an international organization and, inter alia, as a platform for its member states' relations with the EU and for jointly negotiated Free Trade Agreements. EFTA – originally set up by the UK - is an example of how countries that do not want to be members of the EU can still have close links with it. EFTA is a loose intragovernmental association of some economically highly specialised, small and wealthy Western European small states which have, until now, decided not to join the European Union (EU). Essentially it is the platform for Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway and Switzerland to coordinate their free trade policies as far as possible. Iceland, Liechtenstein and Norway also use EFTA, in particular its Secretariat, to manage their membership of the European Economic Area (EEA) and to adopt relevant legislation into the Agreement. Particularly in the context of Brexit it should also be noted that there are elements of the relations between the four EFTA States and the EU which are not necessarily based on either the EEA Agreement or the EU-Swiss Agreements.

Dat blijkt uit het jaarverslag over 2019.

the Impact of the European Court of Justice on Neighbouring Countries

Scholars from Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Israel, Jordan, Russia, Switzerland, Tunisia, Turkey, Ukraine and the Eurasian Economic Union have researched and explored how their respective countries have been influenced by the CJEU. Culminates in an effort to be able to rank the degree to which the CJEU is influencing non-EU jurisdictions according to a common scale. Includes brief description of the relationship and agreements between the EU and the country, concise history of the country's judiciary, full account of the extent to which the country's courts have cited CJEU judgements, and analysis of that extent and the impact. Other factors are explored, such as countries who want to join the EU might aim for more legal harmonization between them and the EU. These metrics are used to compare across the neighbourhood countries and draw conclusions about CJEU influence and impact outside EU. A.Reich, H-W.Micklitz e.a.(OUP-9780198855934) november 2020 432 pag.geb. ca. € 108,00

In the Court We Trust - Cooperation, Coordination and Collaboration between the ECJ and Supreme Administrative Courts

The preliminary reference procedure has long been envisaged as a judicial dialogue between the European Court of Justice and national courts. However, in reality the relationship appears to be closer to one of growing separation. Tries to find out: what is behind this? A study of the existing literature, combined with a case law analysis and interviews with judges, has shown that there are a number of important stumble blocks hindering the communication between these courts, such as language barriers, time constraints, and a failing digital infrastructure. On a deeper level there also appears to be a lack of mutual trust that prevents Supreme Administrative Courts from using the possibilities the procedure provides, such as the opportunity to offer provisional answers to the Court of Justice and the use of requests for clarification by the latter. Offers an explanation for the lack of collaboration between the European Court of Justice and national courts. Provides inside information on how judges from the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) and Supreme Administrative Courts interact. Combines literature review with case law analysis and interviews. TILBURGS MEESTERWERK R.v.Gestel, J.de Poorter (CUP- 9781108481274) januari 2020 256 pag.geb. ca. € 108,00

Informed Publics, Media and International Law

Argues that international law depends on informed global publics to function and to address the complex global problems which we face. This draws into view the role media plays in relation to international law, but also the role of international law in regulating the media, and reveals the communicative character of international law. Analyses international media law frameworks and the 'mediatization' of international law in institutional settings. This approach exposes the complexity of the interrelationship between international law and the media, but also points to the dangers involved in international law's associated and increasing reliance upon the mediated techniques of communicative capitalism. D.Joyce (HART-9781509930418) november 2020 200 pag. geb. ca. € 92,00

Judicial Deference in International Adjudication - A Comparative Analysis

International courts and tribunals are increasingly asked to pass judgment on matters that are traditionally considered to fall within the domestic jurisdiction of States. Especially in the fields of human rights, investment, and trade law, international adjudicators commonly evaluate decisions of national authorities that have been made in the course of democratic procedures and public deliberation. A controversial question is whether international adjudicators should review such decisions de novo or show deference to domestic authorities. Investigates, comparative analysis, how international courts and tribunals have responded to this question. *Johannes Hendrik Fahner is Nederlands advocaat en onderzoeker aan de UvA. Law and the Arms Trade - Weapons, Blood and Rules

Extensive legal analysis-grounded in public, EU, and international law-of arms trade regulation, integrated with insights drawn from international relations. The sale of weapons and related technologies is, globally, one of the most politically controversial and ethically contentious forms of commerce. Intimately connected with sustaining repressive governments and violations of international human rights and humanitarian law, arms exports are also a central element in the economic and strategic policies of the governments of all large industrial states. They have also been the source of abundant corruption, and of serious challenges to the norms and effectiveness of constitutional accountability in democratic states. On paper, the arms trade is heavily regulated: national legislation and international treaties are in place which purport to prohibit certain transactions and limit others. Examines and compares export control regimes of 8 leading nations - USA, Russia, UK, France, Germany, Sweden, China, India - with contributions by leading experts in the field of law and international relations.

the Laws of War in International Thought

Examines the intellectual history of the laws of war before their codification. Reconstructs the processes by which political and legal theorists built the laws' distinctive vocabularies and legitimized some of their broadest permissions, and situates these processes within the broader intellectual project that from early modernity spelled out the nature, function, and powers of state sovereignty. Focuses on 4 historical moments in the intellectual history of the laws of war: the doctrine of just war in Spanish scholasticism; Hugo Grotius's theory of solemn war; the Enlightenment theory of regular war; and late nineteenth-century humanitarianism.

As a result, practitioners are confronted with the challenge of gaining insight into this complex legislative framework and its effects. Investigates a multitude of substantive issues including waste, nature conservation, air pollution, water quality protection, chemical substances and genetically modified organisms. Discusses how the EU has used its regulatory power to steer towards environmentally friendly behaviour, delving into the deep concerns related to the compliance with and enforcement of EU environmental law. It also highlights the important role of civil society's use of environmental procedural rights, and characterizes how the CJEU case law has contributed to the effective implementation of EU environmental legislation.

Versailles 1919-1920 -een wrede vrede -natiestaten en het beginsel van rassengelijkheid

Honderd jaar geleden trad de Vrede van Versailles in volle omvang in werking. In 1920 werd de grensregeling tussen Polen, Rusland en Tsjecho-Slowakije van kracht in diverse uitvoeringsregelingen. De kaart van Europa was geheel nieuw getekend. Er waren nieuwe staten opgericht, die nu deel uitmaken van de Europese Unie. Maar met een totaal andere voorgeschiedenis dan de klassieke West-Europese staten. Ze waren gebaseerd op het nationaal zelfbestemmingsrecht. Maar de bevolking was niet geraadpleegd. Niet in volle omvang. Nieuwe brandhaarden ontstonden. Zoals in Joegoslavië, waar etnische groepen werden samengedrongen die elkaar niet konden luchten of zien. Tot op de dag van vandaag. Wat bezielde de verdragssluiters toen ze die krakkemikkige vrede sloten ? Zagen ze niet in dat ze een reeks nieuwe oorlogen beraamden ? Wat bedoelden ze toch met zelfbestemmingsrecht? Gingen ze echt uit van de gelijkheid van rassen, staten en volken ?

WTO Law and Domestic Regulation - Exploring the Determinants for the Impact of the WTO on Domestic Regulatory Autonomy

How much regulatory leeway do members of the WTO actually have ? Explores the impact of WTO law on domestic regulatory autonomy. Identifies and critically analyses the mechanisms working in WTO law that cause increasing interferences with domestic law and thus restrain the regulatory autonomy of the WTO members. Proposes ways in which WTO law be conceptualised to enhance the policy space of WTO members. Demonstrates flexibilities in interpreting and applying WTO core principles and provisions and explores interpretive and institutional conceptions that could allocate greater policy leeway to WTO members. With the re-alignment of the relationship between the WTO and its members, particularly in light of the Trump administration's arguably more adversarial stance, this book is to be much welcomed.

Ars Aequi Wetsedities - Europese staatssteunregels - editie 2020

Een handreiking voor het (praktische) gebruik van de staatssteunregels voor nationaal beleid. Actuele selectie van de toepasselijke wet- en regelgeving op het gebied van het EU-staatssteunrecht per 01-10- 2019. Naast compilatie van regels geeft inleiding overheden en marktpartijen structuur en kan worden gebruikt als leidraad voor toepassing van de staatssteunregels. Om beleidskansen van Europese staatssteunregels optimaal te benutten moeten overheden bij het uitwerken van financiële transacties met of ten behoeve van ondernemingen, zoals subsidieverordeningen, achtereenvolgens de volgende vragen beantwoorden: 1. Wat is staatssteun ? 2. Kan voorkomen worden dat er sprake is van staatssteun ? 3. Kan voorkomen worden dat staatssteun moet worden aangemeld ? 4. Hoe kan een voorspoedige goedkeuring door de Commissie worden bereikt ? Aan de hand van deze vragen zijn Europese staatssteunregels op basis van art. 107 VWEU hier ingedeeld, zodat overheden duidelijk kunnen zien naar welke regels zij bij de beantwoording van de vraag moeten kijken. Deze gewone staatssteunregels worden in dit boek duidelijk onderscheiden van de staatssteunregels voor DAEB. Voor landbouw- en vervoersteun gelden afzonderlijke regels.

Authority and Legitimacy of Environmental Post-Treaty Rules

In the international law of the 21st century, more and more regulation comes in the form of post-treaty rules. Developed in environmental law, this trend increasingly spreads to areas ranging from tobacco regulation to arms trade. Offers the first systematic examination of these decisions, resolutions and recommendations adopted by treaty bodies, to assess their effectiveness. Shows that the authority of such rules is in question as, in practice, treaty parties retain almost complete discretion when it comes to their implementation. This conclusion gives rise to two key questions. To what extent does this ambiguous authority affect adherence to procedural principles like legal certainty, non-arbitrariness and the duty to state reasons? And can the legitimacy of the process and content of post-treaty rules fill the gaps in their authority? Shines a light on this crucial but neglected area in international law scholarship and forms a starting point for improvements and reform.

Aviation Cybersecurity - Regulatory Approach in the European Union

As the aviation industry becomes more reliant on technology, which is increasingly becoming more interconnected, sophisticated and automated, the number of vulnerabilities is increasing, and this is impacting safety and security. This is because cyberattacks are becoming more prevalent, with the potential to cause accidents and incidents. Cybersecurity in aviation is becoming a serious issue that all aviation stakeholders must consider in order to protect contractual partners, third parties and themselves. In order to increase cybersecurity, regulators at all levels are beginning to react to the threat of cyberattacks. Addresses the question whether the current regulatory approach in the European Union is appropriate for international civil air transportation. Based on a critical analysis of EU aviation law, as well as related international law, with particular emphasis on cybersecurity as a transversal topic, it will be argued that the current legal status quo is not appropriate and needs to be changed. B.Scott (B-9789462369610) september 2019 266 pag.geb. € 75,00

Basic Documents on International Investment Protection

International law of foreign investment is a field of public international law. Its key characteristic is the extent of substantive and procedural decentralisation: while often sharing certain structural elements, both substantive obligations and mechanisms of international dispute settlement are mostly opposable only between the particular parties, even when expressed in multilateral form. This second edition adopts a new structure that better reflects the concurrence of various reform proposals with the fairly stable stratum of instruments that inform the current practice. With this systemic dynamic in mind, the selected documents are divided into three parts: Past, Present, and Future. The Past sets out the legal background to modern investment protection law. The Present provides generalist international law materials (sources and responsibility), a selection of the more important instruments with substantive investment rules, and rules of international dispute settlement regarding investment protection. The Future (new for this edition) lists a number of possible directions of future development, including a variety of approaches that maintain the traditional procedural kernel of investor-State arbitration as well as proposals for more significant change, with non-State actor involvement in dispute settlement either rejected or moulded into a judicial mechanism. *M.Paparinskis(ed.) Behind and Beyond the Chicago Convention - the Evolution of Aerial Sovereignty

The Convention on International Civil Aviation that concluded in Chicago on 7 December 1944, the Chicago Convention, is one of the most ratified multilateral agreements currently in force, with 193 States Parties. Commemorating the 75th birthday of this Convention investigates the following topics: analysis of the absolute character of sovereignty; territorial jurisdiction with respect to airspace; market access and behaviour under economic regulation; liberalisation of air services; position of airlines, airports, and providers of air navigation services in the context of the management of air traffic (ATM); regulation of drones, also in relation with the distinction between civil and State aircraft; role of international, principally ICAO, and regional aviation organisations, in particular, that of the European Union; environmental protection measures such as abatement of noise and reduction of the damaging effects of gaseous emissions; new methods of communication such as Global Navigation Satellite Systems (GNSS); security in aviation, with special reference to the adoption of cybersecurity measures. Annexes include the original texts of the Paris Convention 1919 and Chicago Convention 1944. P.Mendes de Leon (KL-9789403511313) september 2019 504 pag.geb. ca. € 175,00

the Cambridge Handbook of Immunities and International Law

Few topics of international law speak to the imagination as much as international immunities. Questions pertaining to immunity from jurisdiction or execution under international law surface on a frequent basis before national courts, including at the highest levels of the judicial branch and before international courts or tribunals. Nevertheless, international immunity law is and remains a challenging field for practitioners and scholars alike. Challenges stem in part from the uncertainty pertaining to the customary content of some immunity regimes said to be in a 'state of flux', the divergent – and at times directly conflicting - approaches to immunity in different national and international jurisdictions, or the increasing intolerance towards impunity that has accompanied the advance of international criminal law and human rights law. Examines international immunity law in a comprehensive manner and provides an accessible overview of the wide range of immunity regimes in international law, their content, differences and commonalities. Contains an up-to-date treatment of a wealth of national case law from a wide range of jurisdictions. Auteurs zijn verbonden aan universiteiten van Gent en Brussel ! T.Ruys, M.Angelet, L.Ferro (ed.) Data Protection Law in the EU: Roles, Responsibilities and Liability

Seeks here to determine whether EU data protection law should continue to maintain the controller-processor model as the main basis for allocating responsibility and liability. Begins with an in-depth analysis of the nature and role of the controller and processor concepts. The key elements of each are examined in detail, as is the associated allocation of responsibility and liability. To identify the main problems that occur when applying the controller-processor model in practice, a number of real-life use cases are examined (cloud computing, social media, identity management and search engines). Critical evaluation is made of the choices made by the European legislature in the context of the GDPR. It is clear that the GDPR has introduced considerable improvements in comparison to EU Directive 95/46. B.Van Alsenoy (I-9781780688282) maart 2019 694 pag. € 115,00

the EU Citizenship Directive: A Commentary

Defines the right of free movement for citizens of the European Economic Area. Applies to EU citizens and their family members who move to another Member State. This might seem a straightforward definition, but immediately questions arise. Who determines if a person is an EU citizen at all? What about dual citizens of two Member States, or of one Member State and a non-Member State (a 'third State')? What is the position of EU citizens who move to one Member State, and then return to their home Member State? Special emphasis is placed on highlighting the connections and interactions between the Directive's constituent provisions so as to permit a global appreciation of the system of free movement rights to which the Directive gives effect. Each provision is annotated containing a detailed analysis of the case-law of the Court of Justice as well as of related measures impacting upon the Directive's interpretation including European Commission reports and guidelines on the Directive's implementation. This new edition includes discussion of relevant case law and has been expanded to include detailed discussion of rights of EU and UK citizens after Brexit in the withdrawal agreement. E.Guild e.a.(OUP-9780198849384) 2^e dr. oktober 2019 400 pag. geb. ca. € 175,00

EU Law Beyond EU Borders - the Extraterritorial Reach of EU Law

Addresses the impact of EU law beyond its own borders, the use of law as a powerful instrument of EU external action, and some of the normative challenges this poses. The phenomenon of EU law operating beyond its borders, which may be termed its 'global reach', includes the extraterritorial application of EU law, territorial extension, and the so-called 'Brussels Effect' resulting from unilateral legislative and regulatory action, but also includes the impact of the EU's bilateral relationships, and its engagement with multilateral fora and the negotiation of international legal instruments. Maps this phenomenon across a range of policy fields, including the environment, the internet and data protection, banking and financial markets, competition policy, and migration.

Examines the case law of the European Court of Justice concerning the requirement to interpret national law in conformity with EU law directives. EU Energy Law Volume II - Competition Law and Energy Markets

The Commission continued to enforce competition law vigorously in the energy sector. The Gazprom case was brought to an end with the acceptance of commitments aimed to address the Commission's main concerns, including market segmentation, excessive pricing and potential competitive distortions in the development of gas infrastructure. Other cases were concluded as well, such as the Commission's investigation into access to key natural gas infrastructure in Bulgaria, leading to fines being imposed on the incumbent gas operator. Further, the Commission launched an investigation into restrictions to the free flow of gas sold by Qatar Petroleum in Europe. On the mergers side, the acquisition of Uniper by Fortum, two important electricity suppliers in the Nordic region was cleared unconditionally, not least because of the high level of interconnectivity between different countries in the Nordic area, indicating a step-change in market definition. RWE's acquisition of E.ON electricity generation assets was also approved. An in-depth review of E.ON's proposed acquisition of RWE's Innogy is now ongoing. Finally, we saw a remarkable amount of activity in the field of State Aid. The Commission finalised its sector inquiry on capacity mechanisms, looking at 35 existing or planned mechanisms in 11 Member States. The final report was published at the end of 2016, together with legislative proposals on the 'Clean Energy for All' package. Renewable energy schemes continued to throw up new challenges. Specific capacity mechanisms were approved in several Member States over this period.

the European Energy Transition: Actors, Factors, Sectors (European Energy Studies Volume XIV)

The energy transition is Europe's flagship project. The energy transition corresponds to a large scale economic and cultural change. It encompasses sector coupling- linking up sectors that have ignored each other previously, like mobility and power. What is the meaning of digitalization, and how to face cybersecurity risks? What is the response to energy poverty, that 50 million Europeans are victims of? While the geographical scope is Europe at large, divide lines from the past continue to exist, and new ones emerge: What are the borders of the new Energy Europe? Analyses the factors driving change: where are we on climate and sustainability, competitiveness and market, and security of supply? Presents the actors: what genesis of and what contemporary institutions for European energy policy, how is energy addressed by the national and by the European; what about the active customer paradigm and the many startups and business models changing, as well as NGOs? Looks into sectors: power, gas, mobility and the powerful push from digitalization. Proceeds with a reality check, based on facts and figures and reflects on modelling.

Europese Vliegtuigpassagiersrechten - bij vertraagde of geannuleerde vluchten

BELGISCH RECHT

Onderzoek naar de invloed van de Europese wetgever en het Europees Hof van Justitie.

In 2017 werden er binnen de Europese Unie ongeveer 1 miljard vliegtuigpassagiers vervoerd. De bescherming die hun bij vertraagde en geannuleerde vluchten wordt geboden, staat te lezen in de Verordening Vliegtuigpassagiersrechten ((EG) nr. 261/2004). Ondanks haar goede bedoelingen, heeft de Verordening met ernstige problemen te kampen. Juridisch-technische onduidelijkheden, haar potentiële ongeldigheid alsook de vele verregaande tussenkomsten van het Hof van Justitie zorgen ervoor dat het moeilijk is om nog door de wolken de lucht te zien. Beoogt rechtsonzekerheid weg te werken en toepassing van de Verordening te verbeteren. Door onduidelijkheden uit te klaren, repercussies in kaart te brengen en concrete oplossingen naar voren te schuiven, is dit een onmisbaar naslagwerk voor de praktijk.

the History of the European Union - Constructing Utopia

The EU celebrated its 60th anniversary in 2017, but celebrations were muted by Brexit and the growing sense of a crisis of identity. However, as this seminal work shows, the history and ambition of the European Union are considerable. Written by key (mainly Italian, French, German) stakeholders who, between them, acted as architects, adjudicators and arbitrators of the project, it presents the definitive history of the first two generations of the European Union. Revisits birth and consolidation of the great project of a united Europe and the political, institutional, judicial and economical frameworks of the European Union: from the process towards integration, to the advancements and the impasses in building a political union.

the Implementation of International Law in the National Legal Order

States enjoy a wide margin of freedom in the choice of means and methods to fulfil their obligations under international law. However, implementation sometimes requires the involvement of the state body entrusted with the task of adopting legislation: the national legislature. the Interface Between EU and International Law - Contemporary Reflections

Despite their many obvious interconnections, EU and international law are all too often studied and practised in different spheres. While it is natural for each to insist on its own unique characteristics, and in particular for the EU to emphasise its sui generis nature, important insights might be lost because of this exclusionary approach. This book aims to break through some of those barriers and to show how more interaction between the two spheres might be encouraged. In so doing, it offers a constitutional dimension but also a substantive one, identifying policy areas where EU and international law and their respective actors work alongside each other. Offering a 360-degree view on both EU and international institutional and substantive law, this collection presents a refreshing perspective on a longstanding issue.

the Maastricht Collection Vol. I+II+ III +IV : International and European Law

Comprises a broad selection of legal instruments and provisions that have proven to be particularly relevant and useful. Includes codes and statutory legislation from France, Germany, the Netherlands, and the UK, international treaties and instruments of international organisations, as well as the Treaties and selected secondary legal instruments of the EU. The provisions contained are reproduced in the original English or in the authentic English version, where applicable, or they are freshly translated. Many existing translations of written law, including officious translations available on government websites, are significantly out of date and not sufficiently faithful to the original. They often seek to turn old-fashioned or ambiguous original texts into modern and elegant English. Or, instead of translating, they seek to explain how certain terms or formulations are interpreted in practice. Translations remain true to the content, style, and syntax of the original as far as possible. Next to a comprehensive update and revision of all the instruments, this sixth edition also contains a number of useful additions, such as legislation relating to Brexit and statutory legislation on criminal procedure. With these updates and additions, The Maastricht Collection now presents itself as an even more comprehensive resource for European, international, and comparative law.

New Perspectives on Fiscal State Aid - Legitimacy and Effectiveness of Fiscal State Aid Control

In-depth analysis of this topics, taking a giant step towards defining the connection between effective state aid control, its legitimacy and a desirable functioning of the internal market for the twenty-first century. The core elements of this fundamental analysis include: selectivity as applied in the case law of the Court of Justice; whether and to what extent state aid law limits European Union (EU) Member States in designing anti-tax avoidance measures; protection of legitimate expectations; to what extent national judges are required to apply state aid rules ex officio; powers of national judges in connection with the national obligation of guaranteeing an immediate and effective recovery on the basis of an order issued by the European Commission; and connection between legitimacy of state aid law and effectiveness of state aid control. Includes a thorough investigation of the notion of fiscal state aid by focusing on the most recent decisions of the European Commission concerning mismatches.

Official Secrets and Oversight in the EU - Law and Practices of Classified Information

Offers a uniquely comprehensive and in-depth legal account of official secrets in the European Union. Critically analyses their implications for oversight and fundamental rights. Based on forty interviews with practitioners and other stakeholders, it offers an understanding of the practices of official secrets and provides a critical and much-needed perspective on how parliamentary, judicial and administrative oversight institutions deal with access to classified material and the dilemma of oversight to concurrently ensure secrecy necessary for EU security policies and openness needed for democratic processes and fundamental rights. Discerns shifts in institutional practice of oversight at the European Parliament and the Court of Justice of the European Union that disproportionately favour secrecy and the protection of classified documents while creating serious limitations to open democratic deliberations and access to justice, and delivers new insights on the EU's development as a security actor as well as its autonomy from Member States, showing how rules on official secrets were a means for the EU to gain more autonomy in external security cooperation. First comprehensive account of comparative environmental law. Examines in detail the methodological foundations of the discipline as well as the substance of environmental law across countries from four vantage points: country studies from all continents, responses to common problems (including air pollution, water management, nature conservation, genetically modified organisms, climate change and energy, chemicals, waste), foundational components of environmental law systems (including principles, property rights, administrative and judicial organisation, command-and-control regulation, market mechanisms, informational techniques and liability mechanisms), and common interactions of environmental protection with the broader public, private, and criminal law contexts.

the Oxford Handbook of Jurisdiction in International Law

Jurisdiction plays a fundamental role in international law, limiting the exercise of legal authority over international legal subjects. But despite its importance, the concept has remained underdeveloped. Discussions of jurisdiction in international law regularly refer to classic heads of jurisdiction based on territoriality or nationality, or use the SS Lotus decision of the Permanent Court of International Justice as a starting point. Globalization has increased the need for jurisdiction to be applied extraterritorially, non-State forms of law provide new theoretical challenges and intersections between different forms of jurisdiction have become more intricate. Provides a necessary re-examination of the concept of jurisdiction in international law through a thematic analysis of its history, contemporary application, and how it needs to adapt to encompass future developments in international law. Examines some of the most contentious elements of jurisdiction by considering how the concept is being applied.

Argues that the greatest contribution of the UN is not what it has achieved (improvements in health and economic development, for example) or avoided (global war, say, or the use of weapons of mass destruction). It is, instead, the process through which the UN has transformed the structure of international law to expand the range and depth of subjects covered by treaties. Offers the first sustained analysis of the UN as a forum in which and an institution through which treaties are negotiated and implemented. Provides unique insights into UN treaty-making. Through thematic and technical parts, it also offers a lens through which to view possibilities and limitations of international law and relations.

Regulating a Revolution - Small Satellites and the Law of Outer Space

Small satellites make space accessible to non-professionals and on an individual level. Explores the status of small satellites vis-à-vis international space law, examining which provisions are applicable and what kind of legal issues the traditional definitions pose when considering novel small satellite activities. Sheds clear light on current regulatory challenges raised by the commercial and research activities of small satellites as well as by governmental and military applications. Covers the legal implications in such aspects of small satellite revolution as the following: liability for damage caused or suffered by small satellites; state responsibility for non-governmental space activities employing small satellites; registration of space objects; launch practices; online availability of components and launch slots; connection between small satellites and space debris; role of space insurance; legal challenges posed by large constellations of small satellites. Provides case studies showing how these challenges can be dealt with, offers deeply informed insights on emerging trends and future developments.

Rewriting the History of the Law of Nations - How James Brown Scott Made Francisco de Vitoria the Founder of International Law

In the interwar years, international lawyer James Brown Scott wrote a series of works on the history of his discipline. He made the case that the foundation of modern international law rested not, as most assumed, with the seventeenth-century Dutch thinker Hugo Grotius, but with sixteenth-century Spanish theologian Francisco de Vitoria. Far from being an antiquarian assertion, the Spanish origin narrative placed the inception of international law in the context of the discovery of America, rather than in the European wars of religion.

Trade Relations after Brexit

Brings together contributions from leading economists and legal scholars that raise crucial questions and challenges with respect to the Brexit negotiations. In doing so, the contributions do not only look at the withdrawal agreement but, beyond that, at the future trade relations between the UK and the EU after the entry into force of a possible withdrawal agreement. The authors are driven by the conviction that the future relationship between EU and UK shall allow the utmost possible degree of economic freedoms in the benefit of both sides, taking into account political restraints deriving from UK to meet the main objectives of the Brexit campaign and addressing the special circumstance of the Northern Irish peace process, and from the EU, preventing the emergence of incentives to destabilise the European integration. F.Kainer, R.Repasi(ed.)(Nomos-9783848751334) begin januari 2019 300 pag. geb. ca. € 78,00

Upgrading Trade and Services in EU and International Trade Law

Contains various chapters dealing with the question how to upgrade trade in services. At the multilateral level, fundamental differences, inter alia in relation to the intrusiveness of liberalization on regulatory autonomy, have led to a stalemate. Yet, liberalization of services trade does move forward, as numerous free trade agreements have entered into force while others are being negotiated. This raises various new issues, as the precise impact of FTA obligations on national legislation is far from clear. Conversely, in EU law liberalization of trade is much further developed revealing new problems, for example relating to the digital economy and new case law of the Court of Justice on the Services Directive. The contributions in this book extensively discuss some of the issues which arise under international law and EU law in light of the liberalization of services markets. This volume in the Radboud Economic Law series is based on the contributions presented at the third Radboud Economic Law Conference, held at Radboud University Nijmegen, the Netherlands, on 15 June 2018. S.Tans, M.Veenbrink(W-9789462405325) juni 2019 190 pag. € 49,95

Victim Reparation under the Ius Post Bellum - An Historical and Normative Perspective

Provides a never-before-conducted contextual insight into how the issue has been handled historically, analysing case studies from major wars from the seventeenth century to the modern day. Uses as-yet untouched archival documentation from these periods, which uncovers unique data and information on international peacemaking, and actually demonstrates more effective practices of reparation provisions compared with today. Combines historical analysis with modern day developments to provide normative assertions for a future reparation system. WTO Law of Subsidies - a Comprehensive Approach

Comprehensive analysis of the law of subsidies under the WTO regime. Subsidies are arguably the dominant theme in International Economic Law and a prolific case law has been elaborated by WTO Panels and Appellate Body in response to the multitude of complaints lodged in the past two decades (Softwood Lumber, Airbus, Boeing, etc.). The case law and norms disciplining subsidies under the WTO legal regime are of utmost importance first for international trade ministries, parliaments, and international institutions (OECD, CNUCED, FAO, etc.). However, non-governmental organizations (World Wide Fund, etc.) are also directly concerned by this topic regarding, for example, fisheries subsidies and their impact on overexploitation of marine resources. The private sector (fishing fleets, fishermen, extractive industries, etc.) is also affected by this topic particularly regarding future investments. M.Benitah (Kluwer Law- 9789403503608) juni 2019 770 pag. geb. ca. € 228,00

Arbitration Under International Investment Agreements - A Guide to the Key Issues

Investor-state arbitration is a form of dispute settlement that allows foreign investors the opportunity to seek compensation for damages or discriminatory practices, most of which arise out of breaches of treaty obligations by the governments of host countries. With a high level of public interest involved in these cases, the awards of these tribunals are subject to much scrutiny and debate. As a result, up-to-date knowledge of the key topics of investment arbitration is integral for those practicing in the field, especially given the rapid development of international investment law. Describes the most important procedural and substantive aspects of investment arbitration in a practical and accessible manner. Covering all procedural stages of investor-state arbitration, the text provides a broad overview of the key topics including the role of precedent, counterclaims, third party funding, bi-trifurcation, burden of proof regarding jurisdiction, attribution, breach of treaty and contract claims, fair and equitable treatment, indirect expropriation, and culminates in the enforcement of investment awards.

Attribution in International Investment Law

The notion of attribution is primarily used to determine if the State is responsible for the wrongful conduct of persons or entities with links to the State. In the context of international investment law, the exponentially growing arbitration jurisprudence arising from international investment agreements, especially bilateral investment treaties, reflects the extent and risk of attribution determined in investment relationships that often involve State enterprises. The analysis responds to such questions as the following: When is a conduct attributable to the State for the purposes of its responsibility under international investment law? What legal instruments govern the question of attribution under international investment law? In what circumstances is the State the proper party to a contract entered into by a State-owned enterprise with an investor protected by an investment treaty? How can State policymakers minimise their international legal responsibility within the existing framework of attribution in international investment law? How can investors maximise their protection within the existing framework of attribution in international investment law? Also covered are the procedural treatment of attribution by investment tribunals, explication of such broad-brush wordings as 'elements of governmental authority' and 'under the direction or control' and the impact of the rise of State-owned enterprises as investors.

Comparative International Law

By definition, international law, once agreed upon and consented to, applies to all parties equally. It is perhaps the one area of law where cross-country comparison seems inappropriate, because all parties are governed by the same rules. However, as explained here, states sometimes adhere to similar, and at other times, adopt different interpretations of the same international norms and standards. This book achieves three objectives. The first is to show that international law is not a monolith. The second is to map the cross-country similarities and differences in international legal norms in different fields of international law, as well as their application and interpretation with regards to geographic differences. The third is to make a first and preliminary attempt to explain these differences. It is organized into three broad thematic sections, exploring: conceptual matters, domestic institutions and comparative international law, and comparing approaches across issue-areas.

the Court of Justice of the European Union - Multidisciplinary Perspectives

In 2017, the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) celebrated 65 years. If it were to retire, the Court would be able to look back at a fascinating journey, from its relatively humble beginning on 4 December 1952 as part of the then brand-new European Coal and Steel Community, to one of the most important and exciting judicial institutions in Europe, perhaps in the entire world. This volume is dedicated to improving our understanding of the Court in relationship to other actors, including other EU institutions, the Member States, national courts, third countries, and international organisations. It is based on a conference at Stockholm University in December 2016, and includes contributions by both lawyers and researchers in other fields, as well as current members of the Court.

Cyber Espionage and International Law

The advent of cyberspace has led to a dramatic increase in state-sponsored political and economic espionage. Argues that these practices represent a threat to the maintenance of international peace and security and assesses the extent to which international law regulates this conduct. The traditional view among international legal scholars is that, in the absence of direct and specific international law on the topic of espionage, cyber espionage constitutes an extra-legal activity that is unconstrained by international law. Challenges here that assumption and reveals that there are general principles of international law as well as specialised international legal regimes that indirectly regulate cyber espionage. Explores, in terms of general principles of international law, how the rules of territorial sovereignty, non-intervention and the non-use of force apply to cyber espionage. Investigates the role of diplomatic and consular law, international human rights law and the law of the World Trade Organization in addressing cyber espionage. Also examines whether developments in customary international law have carved out espionage exceptions to those international legal rules that otherwise prohibit cyber espionage as well as considering whether the doctrines of self-defence and necessity can be invoked to justify cyber espionage. Concludes that policymakers should nevertheless devise an international law of espionage which, as lex specialis, contains rules that are specifically designed to confront the growing threat posed by cyber espionage. *S.Buchan (ed.) Diplomatic Law - Commentary on the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic Relations

Essential guide to changing methods of modern diplomacy and shows how challenges to its regime of special protection for embassies and diplomats have been met and resolved. Analyzes the reasons for the widespread observance of the Convention rules and why in the special case of communications - where there is flagrant violation of their special status - these reasons do not apply. Describes how abuse has been controlled and how the immunities in the Convention have survived onslaught by those claiming that they should give way to conflicting entitlements to access to justice and the desire to punish violators of human rights. Describes how the duty of diplomats not to interfere in the internal affairs of the host State is being narrowed in the face of the communal international responsibility to uphold human rights. E.Denza (OUP-9780198825654) 4^e dr. februari 2018 472 pag. ca. € 52,00

Effectiveness and Application of EU and EEA Law in National Courts - Principles of Consistent Interpretation

In the current decentralised system of European Union (EU) and European Economic Area (EEA) law enforcement, national courts play a crucial role in securing the effectiveness and application of the law. A great deal of legal research has been expounded on how the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) and the European Free Trade Association Court (EFTA Court) have established and developed the key mechanism for doing so - namely the principle of consistent interpretation. Yet the principle's scope and limits can only be fully understood if one looks to the final outcome of cases at national level, and how national courts charged with the duty of applying the principle actually do so when faced with such issues in practice. Contributors from 14 European states examine the reception of the principle through national case-law, focusing on three issues: reception and understanding of the concept, its criteria for application, and its limitations. The individual contributions are compared in a comparative chapter that identifies considerable tension between the goals of uniform and homogenous application of the principles, and a plurality of different approaches at national level.

Emissions Trading Schemes under International Economic Law

The announcement by China that it will implement a national emissions trading scheme confirms the status of this instrument as the pre-eminent policy choice for mitigating climate change. China will join the dozens of existing and emerging schemes around the world - from the EU to California, South Korea to New Zealand - that use carbon units (otherwise known as emissions permits or carbon credits) to trade in greenhouse gas emissions in a multi-billion dollar global carbon market. However, to date, there has been no consensus about this pre-eminent policy instrument being regulated by international economic law through the World Trade Organization, international investment agreements, and free trade agreements.

Addresses this issue by evaluating whether carbon units qualify as 'goods', 'services', 'financial services', and 'investments' under international economic law and showing how international economic law applies to emissions trading scheme in diverse and unexpected ways. Further, by engaging in a comparative assessment of schemes around the World. Illustrates how and why all emissions trading schemes engage in various forms of violations of international economic law which would not, in most instances, be justified by environmental or other exceptions. Demonstrates how such schemes can be designed or reformed in ways to ensure their future compliance.

Europese Rechter in Gesprek

Waarom stellen nationale rechters prejudiciële vragen aan het Hof van Justitie van de EU (HvJ)? Van welke antwoorden voorziet het HvJ deze vragen? Wat doet de verwijzende rechter met deze antwoorden? Deze vragen worden in drie hoofdstukken onderzocht, waarbij telkens zaken vanuit dit perspectief worden geannoteerd. Wat de motieven voor verwijzing betreft zien wij een scala aan verwijzende rechters langskomen: precieze rechters, pragmatische rechters, activistische rechters, erkenning zoekende rechters, dominante rechters en soevereine rechters. Ook het HvJ vertoont meer gezichten dan misschien werd verwacht. Naast het geven van bruikbare antwoorden kan het Hof ontwijkend, rigide, onvermurwbaar, slordig en te directief zijn. De reacties van de verwijzende rechters ten slotte, lopen uiteen van tevreden volgzzaamheid, frustratie, ongeloof, tandenknarsende navolging en voortzetting van het gesprek door een nieuwe verwijzing, tot regelrechte rebellie.

GDPR: General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679 - Post-Reform Personal Data Protection in the European Union

Comprehensive commentary in the market on the post-reform personal data protection in the European Union (EU). The book offers an extensive discussion of all principles of personal data processing, obligations of data controllers and processors and rights of data subjects. It gives a broad account of the legal and practical aspects of the EU personal data protection law following its recent reform, the most extensive since the first EU laws in this area were adopted and implemented into the legal orders of the Member States. Personal data protection has become one of the central issues in any understanding of the current world system. In this connection, the EU has created the most sophisticated regime currently in force with GDPR. GDPR is applicable directly in all Member States, providing for the unification of data protection rules within the EU. It poses a problem in enabling international trade and data transfers outside the EU between economies which have different data protection models in place.

Oxford Principles of European Union Law. Volume 1: The European Union Legal Order

Since the 1957 Rome Treaty, the European Union has changed dramatically - in terms of its composition, scope and depth. Originally established by six Western European States, the EU today has 28 Members and covers almost the entire European continent; and while initially confined to establishing a "common market", the EU has come to influence all areas of political, economic and social life. In parallel with this enormous geographic and thematic expansion, the constitutional and legislative principles underpinning the European Union have constantly evolved. This three-volume study aims to provide an authoritative academic treatment of European Union law. Each chapter offers a comprehensive and critical assessment of the state of the law. Doctrinal in presentation, each volume nonetheless tries to present a broader historical and comparative perspective. Volume I provides an analysis of the constitutional principles governing the European Union. Covers history of the EU, constitutional foundations, the institutional framework, legislative and executive governance, judicial protection, and external relations. Volume II explores the structure of the internal market, while Volume III finally analyses the internal and external substantive policies of the EU.

A People's Court ? - A Bottom-Up Approach to Litigation Before the European Court of Justice

Each year the European Court of Justice delivers over a thousand decisions on the basis of EU law that affect the Member States as well as the lives of their citizens. Most of these decisions are the result of requests for a preliminary ruling sent by national courts and tribunals seeking an interpretation of EU law. While this procedure is seen as central to the transformation of Europe, significant ambiguity remains on why it is used, and who is primarily responsible for its success. Examines the practice of the preliminary reference procedure. By approaching it from the perspective of those who participate in it, the study takes on prevalent assumptions about the how and why of national court cases that reach the European Court of Justice through a request for a preliminary ruling. This empirical research will appeal to scholars engaged in the relationship between law and European integration as well as practitioners and litigants interested in the practice of the preliminary reference procedure.

the Transformation or Reconstitution of Europe - the Critical Legal Studies Perspective on the Role of the Courts in the European Union

It is generally understood that EU law as interpreted by the ECJ has not merely reconstituted the national legal matrix at the supranational level, but has also transformed Europe and shaken the well-established, often formalist, ways of thinking about law in the Member States. This innovative new study seeks to examine such a narrative through the lens of the American critical legal studies (CLS) perspective. The introduction explains how the editors understand CLS and why its methodology is relevant in the European context. Part II examines whether and how judges embed policy choices or even ideologies in their decisions, and how to detect them. Part III assesses how the ECJ acts to ensure the legitimacy of its decisions, whether it resists implementing political ideologies, what the ideology of European integration is, and how the selection of judges influences these issues. Part IV uses the critical perspective to examine some substantive parts of EU law, rules on internal and external movement, and the European arrest warrant. Seeks to determine whether the role of the ECJ has really been transformative and whether that transformation is reversible. Part V considers the role of academics in shaping the narratives of EU integration.

the Trump Administration and International Law

Argues that President Trump has thus far enjoyed less success than many believe, because he does not own the pervasive "transnational legal process" that governs these issue areas. Shows how those opposing Trump's policies during his administration's first two years have successfully triggered that process as part of a collective counter-strategy akin to Muhammad Ali's "rope-a-dope." Surveys immigration and refugee law, human rights, climate change, denuclearization, trade diplomacy, relations with North Korea, Russia and Ukraine, America's "Forever War" against Al Qaeda and the Islamic State, and the ongoing tragedy in Syria. Illustrates the many techniques that players in the transnational legal process have used to blunt Trump's early initiatives. The high stakes of this struggle, and its broader implications for the future of global governance-now challenged by the rise of populist authoritarians-make this exhausting counter-strategy both worthwhile and necessary. GEEFT DUS ENIGE HOOP ! H.Koh (OUP-9780190912185) oktober 2018 232 pag. geb. ca. € 28,50

Unjust Enrichment in European Union Law

Which rights and obligations arise from the EU principle prohibiting unjust enrichment? This is the first publication to thoroughly examine the consequences this principle has for private law relationships. As the interplay between EU law and national private law intensifies, the question arises how the EU principle prohibiting unjust enrichment plays into various legal relationships involving one or more individuals. Puts forward a compelling analysis, taking into account the functions of unjust enrichment in a number of national law systems and the functions of general principles of EU law, as well as case law of the Court of Justice of the EU. For analytic purposes, links are identified between EU causes of action based on undue payment, unjust enrichment and unlawful act, respectively, followed by a discussion whether or not such actions should be founded on violation of an EU provision having direct (horizontal) effect. Gains a deeper understanding of how the Court of Justice may further develop EU law on the basis of private-law principles. Illuminates which rights individuals may derive from such legal principles and - if they can do so - under which circumstances.

All Rise - the high ambitions of the International Criminal Court and the harsh reality

The ICC is considered a beacon of hope, tasked to go after perpetrators of genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes. It has the responsibility to deliver justice. The court is now fifteen years in existence. How has the ICC been doing? In a vivid and gripping style, and with unique insights, the Dutch journalist Tjitske Lingsma tells the story of the ICC, that got started on 1 July 2002 and now has 124 member states. The court is damaged by government obstruction, intimidation of witnesses, its own failures and member states threatening to withdraw. This is the sobering account of a court that could not live up to its expectations. But as a relative young institution, the ICC should be given the benefit of the doubt. With its important task to bring justice, it is too valuable to fail.

Cases, Materials and Text on European Law and Private Law

Deals with the horizontal effects of EU law: its effects on relationships between individuals. To a large extent, these effects have been created by the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) on the basis of the European Treaties. The main focus is on the developments relating to primary EU law and their influence on national private law. Studies instances where EU primary law has already directly or indirectly influenced the case law in the Member States, or where it is expected to do so soon. Compared to the well-known impact of EU directives on private law, these developments concerning primary EU law are hardly noted by private lawyers and perhaps not sufficiently explained by scholars of EU law. Highlights developments in the areas of competition law, fundamental freedoms, non-discrimination, general principles of EU law, ex officio application of provisions of EU law and implementation of directives, including harmonious interpretation and Francovich liability.

Division of Competences between the EU and the Member States – Reflections on the Past, the Present and the Future

The issue of competence division is of fundamental importance as it reflects the 'power bargain' struck between the Member States and their Union, determining the limits of the authority of the EU as well as the limits of the authority of the Member States. It defines the nature of the EU as a polity, as well as the identity of the Member States. After over six years since the entry into force of the Lisbon Treaty, it is high time to take stock of whether the reforms that were adopted to make the Union's system of division of competences between the EU Member States clearer, more coherent, and better at containing European integration, have been successful. This book asks whether 'the competence problem' has finally been solved

Highlights the recent developments in EU energy law and underlying policy aspects that shape the regulatory approach to energy. By acknowledging the multidisciplinary nature of energy law, its close relationship with policy issues and its development as an evolving new sector-specific legal field, this book reflects the multifaceted nature of EU energy law by focusing on the most topical issues of EU energy law and policy today. It examines regulatory and institutional developments in EU energy law, the case law of the Court of Justice in the field of energy, and different policy dimensions and external aspects of EU energy law. The themes covered include: capacity mechanisms, interactions between EU and international organisations and jurisdictions outside the EU, application of general EU law to the energy sector, sustainability aspects such as the current state of renewable energy support schemes and waste-to-energy processes, underground gas storage facilities, and various aspects of shale gas developments in the EU.

Environmental Crime in Europe

The aim is to explore how environmental crime is controlled and environmental criminal law is shaped and implemented within the European Union and its Member States. Examines the legal framework, looking in particular at Directive 2008/99/EC, and the specific competences of the EU in this domain. Provides a detailed analysis of environmental criminal law in seven Member States, focusing inter alia on the basic legislation, the way in which environmental pollution is criminalised and the main actors in place to enforce environmental criminal law. In so doing, it provides a much needed explanation of the evolution of environmental criminal law in Europe at Union level and how this is implemented in selected Member States.

European Legal Methodology (Ius Communitatis nr. 7)

EU law is an autonomous legal system. It requires its own methodology, independent of the national traditions of the Member States. The contributions discuss the foundations of European legal methodology in Roman law and in the development of national legal methods in the 19th century as well as the economic and comparative background. Core issues of legal methods such as the sources of law, the interpretation of EU primary law and secondary legislation, the concretisation of general clauses, and judicial development of the law are also analysed. Furthermore, the temporal effects of EU directives on the one hand and of judgments of the Court of Justice of the European Union raise specific issues of EU law. Contributions are also devoted to issues of a multi-level legal system. Beyond general aspects, directives, in particular, raise special questions: what is their impact on the interpretation of national law; and what are the methodological consequences of a transposition of directives beyond their original scope ('gold-plating')? Further contributions inquire into methodological issues in contract law, employment law, company law, capital market law and competition law. They illustrate the general aspects of European legal methods with a view to specific applications and also reveal specific issues of methods which occur in these areas. Finally, legal methods from national perspectives of different Member States, namely France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Spain and the United Kingdom, are examined. The authors reveal national traditions of legal methods and national preconceptions and illustrate the application of EU legal methods in different national contexts.

the European Union and International Dispute Settlement

Explores the connections between the European Union and international dispute settlement. Highlights the legal challenges faced by the principal players in the field: namely the EU as a political actor and the Court of Justice of the EU as an international and domestic judiciary. In addition, it places the subject in its broader context of international dispute settlement, and the participation of the EU and its Member States in international disputes. Focuses on horizontal and cross-cutting themes, bringing together insights from the different sectors of trade, investment and human rights, and offering a variety of perspectives.

the European Union and Social Security Law

The aim is to examine how EU law relates to and impacts on the national social security systems of the Member States. It asks three key questions. Firstly, it looks at how the internal market and its developments have eroded Member States' sovereignty over their social security systems, despite the fact that the EU has limited competence in the field. It then explores, secondly, how the Union Citizenship and, thirdly, the Charter of Fundamental Rights has affected the coordination of these regimes.

EU Energy Law and Policy – South European Perspective (Eur. Energy Stud. Vol. XII)

- Meeting the Challenges of a Low Carbon Economy

Navigating the challenges of a low carbon Europe: energy market regulation, the future of RES, and ensuring security of supply. Provides an insight into some of the most significant issues presented at the Florence School of Regulation and Hellenic Energy Regulation Institute's joint conference on European energy law and policy (September 2016 in Athens). The purpose of the conference was to provide a comprehensive analysis of the current status of the European and Greek energy sector, and the issues it faces, from both a legal and an economic perspective. The discussions included an assessment of the low carbon challenges for Europe, examining the future of renewable energy systems and support mechanisms, electricity market design, and the current regulatory framework of the gas and electricity markets in Greece. Finally, the discussions turned to the future role of Distribution System Operators, both in their function as independent supervisors of the electricity market and in their evolving relationship with the Transmission System Operators.

Europees Recht

Dit klassieke handboek analyseert de beginselen van het recht van de Europese Unie na het Verdrag van Lissabon. De hoofdlijnen van het Europees recht en de instellingen van de Europese Unie worden systematisch in kaart gebracht. Dit is dan ook hét actuele Nederlandstalige basiswerk over het Europees recht. In een groeiend aantal rechtstakken is de Europese invloed niet meer weg te denken. Zo verschijnt het Europese Unierecht op de voorgrond van het arbeidsrecht, het socialezekerheidsrecht, het fiscaal recht, het strafrecht, het ipr, het procesrecht, het bank- en verzekeringsrecht, het vennootschapsrecht enz. In al deze rechtstakken ontstaat een samenspel van Unierecht en nationaal recht, wat een grondige kennis van het Unierecht noodzakelijk maakt. Het handboek van Kapteyn dateert nog uit 2003.

Europese Staatssteunregels – 2017 - handreiking voor het benutten van de beleidskansen

Om de beleidskansen van de Europese staatssteunregels optimaal te benutten moeten overheden bij het uitwerken van financiële transacties met of ten behoeve van ondernemingen, zoals subsidieverordeningen, de volgende vragen beantwoorden: wat is staatssteun? Kan voorkomen worden dat er sprake is van staatssteun? Kan voorkomen worden dat staatssteun moet worden aangemeld? Hoe kan een voorspoedige goedkeuring door de Commissie worden bereikt? Aan de hand van deze vragen zijn de Europese staatssteunregels op basis van art. 107 VWEU hier ingedeeld. Deze gewone staatssteunregels worden duidelijk onderscheiden van de staatssteunregels voor DAEB. Voor landbouwsteun en vervoersteun gelden afzonderlijke regels. Omdat overheden bij het maken van steunmaatregelen vaak te maken kunnen hebben met een combinatie van gewone steun en landbouwsteun, zijn de vrijstellingsverordeningen en de richtsnoeren voor staatssteun in de landbouw- en bosbouwsector en in plattelandsgebieden niet gescheiden opgenomen. Dat is wel het geval met de staatssteunregels voor vervoer.

Free Movement of Civil Judgments in the European Union and the Right to a Fair Trial

Examines the attainment of complete free movement of civil judgments across EU member states from the perspective of its conformity with the fundamental right to a fair trial. In the integrated legal order of the European Union, it is essential that litigants can rely on a judgment no matter where in the EU it was delivered. Effective mechanisms for cross-border recognition and the enforcement of judgments provide both debtors and creditors with the security that their rights, including their right to a fair trial, will be protected. In recent years however, the attainment of complete free movement of civil judgments, through simplification or abolition of these mechanisms, became a priority for the European legislator. The text uniquely combines a thorough discussion of EU legislation with an in-depth and critical examination of its interplay with fundamental rights. It contains an overview and comparison of both ECtHR and CJEU case law on the right to a fair trial, and provides a great number of specific recommendations for current and future legislation.

well as the extraterritorial applicability of EU law. It also addresses the question whether an individual complaint mechanism can and should be introduced within the Agency's setup.

Humanitarian Intervention as an Exception to the Prohibition on the Use of Force

The core objective of the United Nations is to strive towards peace and security in international community. Recent flows of refugees to Europe have led to wonder how the international community could help both people facing abuses of their fundamental rights, and also European countries to which they are immigrating. However, since 1945, the use of force has been prohibited with no mention of interventions for humanitarian purposes. The question remains, when unauthorised humanitarian intervention as a last resort measure can be justified in a world of jus cogens prohibition of the use of force. In public international law, new rules of customary law emerge through sufficient State practice and opinio juris, therefore it might turn out that humanitarian interventions will be justified under customary international law. Always when concerned with the protection of human rights, specific criteria shall be drawn in order to prevent abuses. The present book is a master thesis, which is going to answer the question of justifiability of the use of force for humanitarian purposes without the United Nations Security Council approval, drawn from Iraq and Kosovo cases, and evolving customary international law.

Infringement Proceedings in EU Law

Handbook on infringement proceedings under Articles 258-260 of the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union (TFEU). Infringement proceedings constitute a significant proportion of proceedings before the CJEU and play a key role in the development of EU law. Their immediate purpose is to obtain a declaration that a Member State has, by its conduct, failed to fulfil an obligation under the EU Treaties. The aim is to bring that infringing conduct and its effects to an end and, ultimately, to eliminate infringements across the Union. Thoroughly explains the functioning of infringement proceedings, their requirements and related policies, including issues such as: the European Commission's discretion to bring a case before the Court; the author of the infringement, including national courts or private entities; Member States' procedural and substantive defences; the different procedures under Articles 258, 259 and 260(2) and (3) TFEU; rights of private parties; interim measures; financial sanctions; Member States' liability; and the roles played by the European Parliament and the Ombudsman. Particular attention is devoted to rules that have not yet been fully interpreted, or where the current interpretation or application of the rules seems problematic.

International Investment Arbitration – Substantive Principles

Detailed critical review of the substantive principles of international law applied by investment arbitration tribunals, and a clear and comprehensive description of the present state of the law. This second edition is fully updated to take account of the arbitration awards rendered in the period since 2007. Key areas of coverage include: instruments under which investment disputes arise; legal basis of treaty arbitration; dispute resolution and parallel proceedings; who is a foreign investor, including nationality issues and foreign control; what is an investment; investors' substantive rights, including fair and equitable treatment; expropriation; compensation and remedies. Arbitration of overseas investment disputes is one of the fastest growing areas of international dispute resolution. The exponential growth of international investment in recent years has led to the signature of over two thousand Bilateral Investment Treaties (BITs) between foreign states, in addition to a wealth of multilateral treaties and other forms of concession agreements. The legal principles that have developed in this area are subject to intense debate, and are still in a state of flux. While tribunals routinely state that they are applying principles of public international law to determine disputes, many of the principles applied have only been developed recently in the context of investment treaty arbitrations, and tribunals are often guided more by the approaches taken by other tribunals, than by pre-existing doctrines of public international law.

the Law of Maritime Blockade - Past, Present, and Future

Close examination of maritime blockade unveils a sinister character that can, in cases where countries are highly reliant on imports of foodstuffs to feed their populations, prove incredibly deadly, particularly for the young and elderly. This book is unique in that it is the only contemporary book that is dedicated to the study of the law of maritime blockade in the context of modern humanitarian law. Reviewing the development of blockade law over the past four centuries, this publication provides a historical analysis of the law as it emerged, tracing its evolution through armed conflicts between 1684 and the present. Referring to the starvation caused by the blockade of Germany during World War I and the humanitarian crisis caused by the sanctions regime against Iraq (1991-2003), this book demonstrates that blockade can have extremely deleterious effects for vulnerable civilian populations. In this context the current law of blockade is examined, and found to be deficient in terms of its protection for civilians. Recognizing and advocating that blockade should remain as a valid and effective method of warfare, the book offers a template for a modern law of maritime blockade that incorporates many of the traditional aspects of the law, while reducing the possibilities that blockades can cause or exacerbate humanitarian disasters.

It is one of the many avenues her career could have taken after her years of service as the Legal Adviser of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Kingdom of the Netherlands. This volume pays tribute to Liesbeth Lijnzaad's contribution to the development of international law to date as a scholar. It brings together all her articles in the fields of general international law and law of treaties, human rights and women's rights, international humanitarian law, and law of the sea. It necessarily is a snapshot as it may be expected that many more contributions are to come.

Limits to EU Powers - A Case Study of EU Regulatory Criminal Law

EU policy-makers are bound to ensure that any EU legislation must fall within the remit of the EU's competences. This monograph looks at this highly contested issue, with particular reference to European Union criminal law. Looks at the powers enjoyed by the EU to impose criminal sanctions to suggest mechanisms by which legislative powers could be kept in check. Argues that the main responsibility for providing checks against the exercise of EU power lies with the EU judiciary. Argues that the most effective form of review is procedural and through the case study of sanctions, provides the basis for such a review.

the Maastricht Collection Complete (Vol. I,II,III,IV)

The compilation is based on the Maastricht University Law School's longstanding expertise in teaching and researching European, international, and comparative national law. It includes codes and statutory law from France, Germany, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom, international treaties, as well as legal instruments of the European Union. The provisions are reproduced in the original English or in the authentic English version, where applicable, or they are freshly translated under critical editorship. Existing translations of written law, including officious translations available on government websites, often seek to turn old-fashioned or ambiguous original texts into modern and elegant English. Or, instead of translating, they seek to explain how certain terms and formulations are interpreted in practice. The translations remain as faithful as possible to the content and linguistic style of the original, thus allowing the reader not only to appreciate the substance but also the authentic form of legal sources. Due to the significant expansion of the collection, this new edition has been divided into four reader-friendly volumes, which can be ordered separately:

the Making of a New European Legal Culture: the Aarhus Convention - At the crossroad of comparative law and EU law

The Aarhus Convention entered into force more than 20 years ago. It lays down the pillars of environmental democracy, that is a governance systems where citizens and civil society organisations are fully involved in the decisions affecting the environment we all live in. The Convention is an ideal testing ground upon where to study how legal principles, rules and institutions behave once they are moved from one jurisdiction to another and how the recipient jurisdiction reacts at receiving a transplant. The analysis from a legal cultural approach the law in the EU and 8 Member States provides a much richer picture about how the Aarhus Convention has been implement and what are the legal cultural enablers and obstacles to the full development of environmental democracy in different jurisdictions.

The reason for opening this discussion is the fact that on the one hand, the main legal problems remain - only the launching State can register a space object and only the launching state is liable for damages caused by the satellite, and on the other hand the emergence of several new phenomena, such as condominium of satellites or the exponential existence of small satellites. Furthermore, the relation between the registration of space objects under UN framework and the assignment of frequencies is practically unknown to non-internals.

Post-Reform Personal Data Protection in the European Union - General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679

Comprehensive discussion of all principles of personal data processing, obligations of data controllers, and rights of data subjects in the context of General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR, i.e., Regulation (EU) 2016/679). The European Union (EU) has created the most sophisticated regime currently in force with the GDPR of 2016. GDPR will become applicable directly in all the Member States, providing for a unification of data protection rules within the EU. It, however, also poses a problem of enabling international trade and data transfers outside the EU between economies which have different data protection models in place. This book forms the core of the personal data protection regime. Among the broad spectrum of aspects of the subject covered are the following: summary of the changes introduced by the GDPR; new territorial scope, key principles of personal data processing; legal bases for the processing of personal data; marketing, cookies, and profiling; new information clauses; new Subject Access Requests (SARs), including the 'right to be forgotten' on the Internet, the right to data portability, and the right to object to profiling; new data protection by design and by default; benefits from implementing a certificate; data transfers outside the EU, including Binding Corporate Rules (BCRs), Standard Contractual Clauses (SCCs), and special features of EU-US arrangements. This book references many rulings of European courts, as well as interpretations and guidelines formulated by European data protection authorities, examples and best practices.

Principles and Practice in EU Sports Law

Assesses sporting bodies' claims for legal autonomy from the 'ordinary law' of states and international organizations. Sporting bodies insist on using their expertise to create a set of globally applicable rules which should not be deviated from irrespective of the territory on which they are applied. The application of the lex sportiva, which refers to the conventions that define a sport's operation, is analysed, as well as how this is used in claims for sporting autonomy. The lex sportiva may generate conflicts with a state or international institution such as the European Union, and the motives behind sporting bodies' claims in favour of the lex sportiva's autonomy may be motivated by concern to uphold its integrity or to preserve commercial gain. Underlines the tense relationship between lex sportiva and national and regional jurisdictions which is exemplified with specific focus on the EU. The development of EU sports law and its controversies are detailed, reinforced by the example of relevant legal principles in the context of the practice of sports law. The intellectual heart of the text endeavours to make a normative assessment of the strength of claims in favour of sporting autonomy, and the variation between different jurisdictions and sports is evident. Furthermore the enduring dilemma facing sports lawyers is whether sport should be regarded as special, and in turn how (far) its special character should be granted legal recognition.

Principles on Climate Obligations of Enterprises

GHG emissions must be reduced at great pace and to a significant extent to keep global warming below 2 and preferably 1,5 degrees Celsius. This can only be achieved if the obligations of major players – States, enterprises and investors – are sufficiently clear. The Oslo Principles aimed to discern the legal obligations of States. Focusses on the obligations of enterprises and investors. They identify the reduction obligations of enterprises, and articulate a series of related obligations. Investors can and many already do play an important role to stem the tide. Aims to provide a legal basis for active investment management and engagement geared at stimulating enterprises to comply with their legal obligations. An extensive commentary further explains the Principles and their legal underpinning.

Private Law and the Internal Market - Direct Horizontal Effect of the Treaty Provisions on Free Movement

Private law and private law relationships in Member States of the European Union are increasingly influenced by EU law. Sometimes, this influence is predictable, for instance because EU law provides expressly that violation of a rule shall produce a specific private law effect (Article 101(2) TFEU). Less predictable are the consequences where the Court of Justice interprets provisions of EU law ostensibly addressed to the Member States such as creating, modifying or extinguishing rights and obligations in legal relationships between individuals. Since 1974 the Court has given interpretations to such direct horizontal effect to some of the TFEU provisions on free movement. Seeks to establish the links between the relevant judgments and, by analysing them in the context of the various mechanisms used by EU law to influence national private law, considers whether the Court's approach to one free movement provision can be predictive of other free movement provisions and if so, to what extent. It also discusses the impact which accepting direct horizontal effect has on the grounds that must be available to individuals as a defence to alleged infringement of a free movement provision.

The Role of Gas in the EU's Energy Union

The EU's gas market is at the very centre of the Energy Union, and is changing faster than ever before. Indeed, the European Council has stressed repeatedly the EU's priority of ensuring its gas security, and promoting liquid and competitive gas markets across the whole of the EU. The Commission has proposed a revision to the gas Security of Supply Regulation and negotiations are close to finalisation. Earlier this year, the Commission published an 'LNG Strategy'. In terms of market integration, the progressive adoption of grid codes is further integrating markets, and the emergence of active trading hubs in North West Europe, is seeing the emergence of similar liquid markets throughout the EU. The EU has also been actively pursuing its aim of diversifying its sources of gas supplies, making progress in bringing the Southern Corridor to fruition, and is actively looking at other potential suppliers, for example in the Eastern Mediterranean. And in the competition policy field the Commission has equally been active, scrutinising the behaviour in particular of companies holding dominant positions in parts of the EU.

State Immunity in Dutch Civil Proceedings

The law of State immunity is set in a "world in-between" - in more ways than one. It is a part of public international law; its application, however, is subject to national law of civil procedure. Historically, it has almost exclusively been part of customary law and therefore notoriously difficult to grasp. Now, with the adoption of the United Nations Convention on Jurisdictional Immunities of States and Their Property, there is a realistic chance of establishing a binding and uniform set of rules internationally. Though not yet in force, the United Nations Convention has already been embraced by courts as a welcome representation of the current state of customary law. Viewed from the Dutch perspective, this book examines the historical evolution of current Dutch views on State immunity. It examines in depth the relevant provisions of the United Nations Convention. The centrepiece of the book is a critical analysis of the conformity of these provisions with those of the relevant current Dutch law of civil procedure and the current Dutch views on State immunity. The analysis does not shy away from the potential for conflict and evaluates the possible added value the convention may have for Dutch legal practice.

United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea – a commentary

The United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) entered into force in 1994 and has since been ratified by about 160 states, including all the Member States of the EU and the EU itself. The Convention defines the rights and duties of national states with regard to the use of the seas. UNCLOS consolidates customary international law and various Conventions previously adopted by the international community. This Treaty, the most comprehensive ever concluded, is often referred to as 'the constitution for the seas'. This Commentary focuses particularly on the interaction between UNCLOS and the European legal order, for example in the field of the prevention or the reduction of environmental pollution and the fair distribution of natural resources. EEN LANGE WEG NA HUGO DE GROOT'S MARE LIBERUM ANNO 1609 !!

EU Competition Law . Vol. IV : State Aid

This second edition of the State aid volume constitutes a state of the art description and analysis of all aspects of the State aid discipline. Above all, it sets out all the novelties of the State Aid Modernisation programme which was launched in 2012 and completed in summer 2014. The new edition reviews all major guidelines, frameworks and legislation, including the Procedural Regulation, the Enabling Regulation, the General block exemption Regulation and the de minimis Regulation. The book explains the Commission's overall approach to compatibility of State aid, describes the new common principles for assessment and discusses the new requirements for evaluation and transparency. It gives a detailed account of the new rules on research, development and innovation, energy and environment (including the ETS), risk capital and risk finance, regional development, and rescue and restructuring of firms in difficulty. The book also explains the first rules ever adopted by the Commission on important projects of common European interest. It discusses the relationship between State aid and the Structural Funds, in particular in light of the new use of those funds via financial instruments. All the main economic sectors affected by the modernisation programme are discussed, including broadband, cinema, public service broadcasting, aviation, maritime and land transport, agriculture and fisheries. A special section is dedicated to services of general economic interest, introducing the new SGEI package and explaining how it has been applied. The section on banking provides a full account of how the rules and enforcement practice have evolved since the start of the financial crisis and discusses the issues which arise with the introduction of the new regulatory framework for a European Banking Union. The notion of aid section takes account of the most recent jurisprudence of the Union Courts and the Commission's decisional practice, thereby addressing issues frequently faced by practitioners and public authorities.

EU Environmental and Planning Law Aspects of Large-Scale Projects

Selection of the contributions presented at the EELF Conference. Governments, companies, environmental associations and citizens all over the European Union (EU) are struggling with large scale projects. On the one hand large scale projects can contribute to economic development, on the other hand they often also raise environmental concerns. Because of their size and potential impact, large scale projects usually lead to heavy debates and quickly become of great symbolic value. Consequently, large scale projects are excellent examples of the difficulty to balance economic development with environmental protection. The types of large scale projects, planned as well as 'under construction' in the EU, are very diverse. One can think of all kinds of infrastructure projects (motorways, railways, waterways, stations, ports, airports,...), building projects (offices, housing projects, sports stadiums, redevelopment of brownfields,...), waste projects (incineration, landfill,...), energy projects (electricity and gas networks, wind farms, biogas installations, heat networks, extraction projects,...), climate projects (CDM projects,...), water projects, etc. In order to promote the legal thinking about all kinds of environmental and planning law aspects of large scale projects, Hasselt

University and KU Leuven, Campus Brussels jointly hosted from 10 to 12 September 2014 the second European Environmental Law Forum (EELF) Conference, with as central topic "Environmental and Planning Law Aspects of Large Scale Projects". The conference focused more specifically on the following aspects: - The role of spatial and environmental planning, - Permitting and review procedures, - Critical sectoral regimes, - Horizontal measures.

The book is subdivided into six main themes: general, public participation, environmental impact assessment, water, nature, land use. COMPLETE INHOUDSOPGAVE OP AANVRAAG.

European Contract Law and the Digital Single Market – the implication of the digital revolution

The EU is committed to making the Single Market fit for the digital age, by enhancing the protection of consumers and data subjects, while providing businesses with the legal certainty they need to invest in this field and support growth and innovation. In this context, European Contract Law and the Digital Single Market, an edited collection consisting of carefully selected contributions by leading scholars, addresses the impact of digital technology on European Private Law in light of the latest legislative developments including the EU Regulation of 27 April 2016 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on free movement of such data, as well as the European Commission's proposals of 9 December 2015 for a Directive on the supply of digital content, for a Directive on online and other distance sale of goods and for a Regulation on the cross-border portability of online content services in the internal market. The book analyses new and urgent issues in the field of contract, data protection, copyright and private international law: namely the EU approach to personal information as a tradeable commodity and as the object of a fundamental right of the individuals concerned, the protection of consumers' and users' rights in contracts for the supply of digital content and on online and other distance sales of goods, the cross-border portability of online content services, the new features of standard contracts in the digital market and the issues surrounding the emergence of the so called platform economy.

Handbook of Shale Gas – Law and Policy

Petroleum law and policy in the UK to date has focused on the oil and gas resources in the North Sea, and their regulation over the last fifty years. However, a new source of petroleum in the UK is emerging - that of the unconventional petroleum resource of shale gas. This book will be a thematic book considering the shale gas law and regulation. Whilst there will be a focus on the UK, the book will place it within a wider global context. Rather than a theoretical focus, the book aims to have a practical, applicable focus, so that the reader can apply the legal principles and policies to their jurisdiction. It will focus on five major themes: overview and introduction to shale gas activities; shale gas economics and energy security; access to shale gas resources; shale gas law and regulation; and the future of shale gas.

Improving Privacy Protection in the Area of Behavioural Targeting

This PhD thesis discusses how European law could improve privacy protection in the area of behavioural targeting. Behavioural targeting, also referred to as online profiling, involves monitoring people's online behaviour. To protect privacy, the EU lawmaker mainly relies on the e-Privacy Directive, as well as on general data protection law. The thesis is a legal study, but it incorporates insights from disciplines such as computer science, behavioural economics, and media studies. Uitermate actuele materie uitputtend onderzocht.

International Air Law and ICAO

This is the third edition of the acclaimed International Air Law and ICAO, first published in 2008. The book has been fully updated to take the latest developments into account. Specialized legal literature dealing with different aspects of international air law is rare, the developments often overtake the existing writings and there is a continuous need not only for updating but also for future-oriented thinking. There is a practical need for a compact but exhaustive and easily comprehensible textbook or reference book that deals with the most general aspects of international air law, as well as with the constitutional issues and law-making functions of the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO). This book fills this gap as it is a general treatise of the law of international civil aviation aimed at the needs of university students and educators, government authorities, airlines, practicing lawyers, journalists, international organizations and the general public.

het Recht van de EU voor Decentrale Overheden

Legt uit op wanneer decentrale overheden zoals provincies en gemeenten met bepaalde onderdelen van het EU-recht te maken krijgen en hoe zij daarmee moeten omgaan. Het gehanteerde beleidsmatige Europabewustzijn stimuleert die overheden om primair te kijken naar de beleidsdoelstellingen van de EU en te bezien in hoeverre die aansluiten op hun eigen beleid. In de EU is, in afwijking van bepaalde neoliberale lidstaten, gekozen voor de sociale markteconomie die alle ruimte biedt voor duurzaamheid, milieu en sociaal beleid. Decentrale overheden moeten het beleidsmatig hebben van de zeer omvangrijke uitzonderingen op de verboden van vrij verkeer en staatssteun en van de nu al op duurzaamheid en sociaal beleid afgestemde aanbestedingsregels. Goede kennis van bestaande regels en beleidskansen biedt provincies en gemeenten de mogelijkheid hun beleidsvisie op duurzaamheid, milieu en sociaal beleid verder af te stemmen met de Commissie. Dat kan leiden tot beleidsmatig gewenste aanpassingen van de interne marktregels.

Turkey and the EU: Energy,Transport and Competition Policies (European Energy Studies Vol IX)

Product of a research project on Turkey-EU relations launched at the time when Turkey's accession talks were coming to a standstill. This project focused on strategic aspects of Euro-Turkish relations with a view to assessing how Turkey's regional policy and its role in the neighbourhood might be reconciled with those of the EU even when its membership prospects remained bleak. These studies are aimed to (i) examine the extent to which Turkey's policies have the potential to converge with those of the EU's neighbourhood policies; (ii) provide a better understanding of how Turkey's regional priorities might serve to strengthen or detract from its EU membership goals; and (iii) reassess Turkey's potential to complement and reinforce EU policies and practices in its neighbourhood. By examining the three policy areas (energy, transport, and competition), this book aims to enhance understanding of both Turkey's and the EU's positions, help identify the extent to which their differences may be reconcilable in these three areas, and provide by means of concrete examples fresh ideas and alternative approaches for formulating complementary and coherent neighbourhood policies.

The Joint Operating Agreement (JOA) is widely used in the petroleum industry as a contractual framework for joint ventures across different continents and standards. The first part of this book deals with considerations prior to entering into a JOA, such as compliance with bribery laws; standards, practices and procedures across the petroleum industry; enforceability of JOAs and understanding decommissioning obligations. The second part focusses on key clauses within any JOA covering topics including health and safety considerations; liability and insurance; and control of operations and expenditures. This is a unique publication dedicated to analysing all of these key practical issues faced by oil and gas companies in different parts of the world in negotiating and implementing a JOA in a single book publication.

de Dienstenrichtlijn in Nederland - De gevolgen van richtlijn 2006/123/EG voor de nationale rechtsorde vanuit Europees perspectief

De Europese Dienstenrichtlijn 2006/123/EG heeft tot doel de uitoefening van het vrij verkeer van diensten en de vrijheid van vestiging te vergemakkelijken teneinde een echte interne markt voor diensten te realiseren. Zij moet dienstverrichters als bouwbedrijven, makelaars, architecten en horecaondernemingen in de gelegenheid stellen om zich gemakkelijk permanent te vestigen in een andere lidstaat, of daar tijdelijk werkzaamheden te verrichten. De richtlijn verplicht de lidstaten hiertoe onder meer vergunningsprocedures zo eenvoudig mogelijk te houden en onnodige belemmeringen die de eerlijke concurrentie op de interne markt in de weg staan, op te heffen. Daarnaast bevat de richtlijn verplichtingen op het gebied van e-government en administratieve samenwerking tussen de lidstaten. Op de lidstaten rust de taak om met behulp van het nationale recht aan al deze verplichtingen uitvoering te geven. Zowel in wetenschap als praktijk roept dit echter een groot aantal vragen op. Deze uitgave bevat een diepgaande analyse van de juridische verplichtingen die voortvloeien uit de Dienstenrichtlijn, geeft antwoord op de vraag welke grenzen de richtlijn stelt aan de nationale regelgevende bevoegdheden en hoe de richtlijn door de nationale instanties kan worden uitgelegd en toegepast. Ten slotte is nauwgezet in kaart gebracht op welke wijze de richtlijn in Nederland ten uitvoer wordt gelegd en welke consequenties de richtlijn heeft voor het Nederlandse recht, in het bijzonder het nationale bestuursrecht.

EU Citizenship & the Constitutionalisation of the European Union

It has been 20 years since Union citizenship was introduced under the Treaty of Maastricht, yet it remains a topical and contemporary issue. The main research question underlying this study is whether and how European citizenship affects the constitutionalisation of the European Union. The present study connects European citizenship with European constitutional processes, in order to grasp the constitutional relevance of EU citizenship. To this end, the different aspects of European citizenship are specifically linked to features that are, commonly, found in constitutions. The effect of and relation between European citizenship and four of these constitutional 'building blocks' are assessed. First of all, the effect of European citizenship to the vertical division of powers between the Member States and the European Union is analysed. Second, the way European citizenship relates to a common ideology, existing of fundamental rights protection and democracy, is discussed. Moreover, the effect of European citizenship on judicial review and the hierarchy of norms in the European Union is addressed. Finally the question is posed how and to what extent European citizenship affects the constitutionalisation of the European Union and how European citizenship can be placed within the European constitutional context.

EU Language Law

Comprehensive account of all language regulations and arrangements which currently exist in EU law. First and foremost, it covers the various explicit and implicit language regimes of EU institutions, bodies and agencies, explaining how and why they came about. It also explores numerous other EU language provisions in the area of freedom, security and justice, relating to quite diverse topics such as road traffic offences, recognition of national court decisions, the European Arrest Warrant and crime victims. It also discusses EU linguistic provisions in the internal market regarding product labelling or the language proficiency assessment of professionals such as medical doctors or lawyers seeking to provide services in other EU Member States. Many other issues such as language testing for newcomers in society and language proficiency requirements for employment are investigated. This book highlights an often neglected, yet tremendously important aspect of EU integration: the language issue.

Europees Internationaal Rivierenrecht

Behandelt in extenso alle juridische aspecten verbonden met het gebruik van binnenwateren voor scheepvaartdoeleinden, met name door binnenschepen. Zowel publiekrechtelijke als privaatrechtelijke vraagstukken komen daarbij aan de orde. Etaleert op een meesterlijke manier de uitgebreide historische en juridische kennis van het Europese rivierenrecht en voert de lezer mee op een intrigerende tocht naar de schepping van een juridisch systeem waarmee bijna iedereen wordt geconfronteerd maar wat weinigen werkelijk kunnen bevatten.

De verschillende grote ontwikkelingen die stapsgewijs tot stand zijn gekomen, van de Franse revolutie over het Congres van Wenen, het verdrag van Parijs van 1856 naar de grote verkeersconferenties in de 20ste eeuw, worden met meer dan een vaardige hand beschreven en geanalyseerd. Bijzonder boeiend is het plaatsen van het Europese rivierenrecht binnen het grotere kader van het internationaal publiek recht. Fundamentele aspecten zoals de vrijheid van scheepvaart en de institutionalisering van het rivierenrecht worden grondig behandeld en geven zonder meer een grote meerwaarde aan dit boek. Het toetsen van de materie tegenover het recht van de Europese Unie en tegenover andere dan scheepvaartgebruiken van de waterwegen vervolledigt de aanpak van de auteur waarmee het voorliggende werk een bijna alomvattend beeld geeft van het Europese rivierenrecht.

de Europese Staatssteunregels 2015 - een handreiking voor het benutten van de beleidskansen

Om de beleidskansen van de Europese staatssteunregels optimaal te benutten moeten overheden bij het uitwerken van financiële transacties met of ten behoeve van ondernemingen, zoals subsidieverordeningen, achtereenvolgens de volgende vragen beantwoorden:

1. Wat is staatssteun?
2. Kan voorkomen worden dat er sprake is van staatssteun?
3. Kan voorkomen worden dat staatssteun moet worden aangemeld?
4. Hoe kan een voorspoedige goedkeuring door de Commissie worden bereikt?

Aan de hand van deze vragen zijn de Europese staatssteunregels op basis van art. 107 VWEU in deze bundel ingedeeld, zodat overheden duidelijk kunnen zien naar welke regels zij bij de beantwoording van de vraag moeten kijken. Deze gewone staatssteunregels worden in dit boek duidelijk onderscheiden van de staatssteunregels voor DAEB. Voor landbouwsteun en vervoersteun gelden ook afzonderlijke regels. Omdat overheden bij het maken van steunmaatregelen vaak te maken kunnen hebben met een combinatie van gewone steun en landbouwsteun, zijn de vrijstellingsverordeningen en de richtsnoeren voor staatssteun in de landbouw- en bosbouwsector en in plattelandsgebieden niet gescheiden opgenomen. Dat is wel het geval met de staatssteunregels voor vervoer. Wanneer overheden bij de samenstelling van subsidieverordeningen de beleidskansen van de AGV benutten, kunnen zij voorkomen dat het overgrote deel van hun subsidiebeleid problemen gaat opleveren met de Europese staatssteunregels.

Indirecte Discriminatie in de EU op Grond van Nationaliteit – Casus onderwijsrecht en vrij verkeer in Europa

COMPLETE INHOUDSOPGAVE OP AANVRAAG

Artikel 18, alinea 1 VWEU bevat een algemeen discriminatieverbod op grond van nationaliteit. Dit verbod omvat volgens het Hof van Justitie naast directe ook indirecte discriminatie, waarbij de discriminatie wordt veroorzaakt door een niet uitdrukkelijk verboden onderscheidingscriterium dat in de praktijk hoofdzakelijk in het nadeel werkt of kan werken van de EU-onderdanen die afkomstig zijn uit een andere lidstaat. Onderzocht wordt welke de slaagkansen zijn van de rechtvaardigingsgronden die de EU-lidstaten voor het Hof van Justitie inroepen om hun nationale maatregelen te rechtvaardigen die de onderdanen afkomstig uit een andere lidstaat op indirecte wijze discrimineren op grond van hun nationaliteit. En meer specifiek: in welke mate slaagt het Hof erin om de belangen van de Unie, de EU-lidstaten en de EU-burgers met elkaar te verzoenen wanneer het zich buigt over de rechtvaardigingsgronden die EU-lidstaten inroepen om hun indirect discriminerende maatregelen in het kader van het diensten- en personenverkeer te rechtvaardigen? Wanneer is er volgens het Hof van Justitie in het diensten- en personenverkeer sprake van indirecte discriminatie op grond van nationaliteit en welke gronden kunnen de EU-lidstaten inroepen om hun indirect discriminerende nationale maatregelen die betrekking hebben op het diensten- en personenverkeer te rechtvaardigen?

Judicial Coherence in the European Union

Selection of interesting papers presented at the Third REALaw Research Forum, which was held in Utrecht on January 30, 2015. The overarching theme of the colloquium was Judicial Coherence in the European Union. Ever since the establishment of the EU's judicial system, coherence in the administration of justice within the EU has been an intriguing topic for debate amongst legal scholars and practitioners. Throughout the development of EU (administrative) law in recent decades, courts have been major players in shaping the EU legal order in law and practice. In the overwhelming majority of cases in everyday EU legal practice, national courts and tribunals fulfil the duty of ensuring that the law is observed in the interpretation and application of EU law. Recent judgments clearly illustrate that judicial coherence in the EU concerns a shared responsibility of the Court of Justice and the courts in the Member States. Between the lines, anticipation of the growing horizontal interaction between national courts of the EU Member States can be observed.

Justice, Home Affairs and Security - European and International Institutional and Policy Development

Offers an insight into the historical, institutional and topical development of the EU policy in the areas of justice, home affairs and security, well-embedded in a broader international context. The main part of the book, dedicated to the EU, is therefore preceded by a part on relevant cooperation on the Benelux and Schengen levels and followed by a part on cooperation in the areas concerned on Council of Europe, NATO, OSCE, G8, OECD and UN levels. Without a proper understanding of those cooperation levels, the development and functioning of the EU would be hard to fully grasp. Before addressing the actual policy dimension, all parts start with a historical introduction and a sketch of institutional structures and functioning.

de Prejudiciële Procedure - oude problemen of nieuwe uitdagingen?

In zijn oratie behandelt Jurian Langer artikel 267 van het Verdrag betreffende de werking van de Europese Unie, misschien wel het meest succesvolle artikel van de Europese verdragen. Veel belangrijke Europeesrechtelijke concepten zijn immers ontwikkeld naar aanleiding van prejudiciële vragen. Welke factoren bepalen het succes van de prejudiciële procedure?

Prevention and Compensation for Transboundary Damage in Relation to Cross-border Oil and Gas Pipelines (Energy & Law. Vol. 17)

Cross-border pipelines provide a relatively safe but economic tool for transportation of large quantities of oil and gas across international borders. Nowadays the international oil and gas pipeline network is expanding millions of kilometers worldwide. Meanwhile, just like any other industrial activities, pipelines cannot be kept completely safe from accidents. In the case of crossborder pipelines, unless appropriate measures have been taken by the parties involved for the prevention of such accident, the risks of such accidents are greater since control and monitoring are shared and it is more difficult to attribute blame for any transboundary damage. Addresses the impact and application of various policy instruments and regulation at the international level, which may be considered as an appropriate instrument to guarantee the safety of cross-border oil and gas pipelines. Furthermore addresses the issue of international responsibility for significant damage which may be caused by the cross-border pipelines, with an emphasis on the roles of states. The author provides answers to questions such as: What are the potential harms associated with cross-border oil and gas pipelines? What is the international legal regime applicable to cross-border pipelines? What are measures used to prevent and reduce damage which may be caused by crossborder pipelines? Is the current international legal regime applicable to crossborder and cross-country pipelines designed in such a way that it enables an effective prevention of trans-boundary damage? Under which conditions can states be held responsible for trans-boundary damage caused by pipelines? An economic analysis of safety and environmental regulation in relation to cross-border oil and gas pipelines in providing actors with adequate incentive to internalize pollution cost complements the book. Moreover, a detailed study of provisions of international and regional instruments in prevention of transboundary damage and compensation of such damage caused by crossborder pipelines will be provided. As a result this book contains the latest update of international and regional instruments with respect to prevention and compensation of transboundary damage caused by pipelines.

de Spitzenkandidaten-procedure: genesis and nemesis of a constitutional convention?

De voornaamste politieke fracties in het Europees Parlement kozen in de aanloop naar de verkiezingen van 2014 ieder een lijsttrekker, een Spitzenkandidat, en spraken af alleen de winnende kandidaat te accepteren als voorzitter van de Europese Commissie. Dat zou meer transparantie moeten opleveren en de belangstelling voor de parlementsverkiezingen moeten vergroten. Deze door de redactie van het Nederlands Juristenblad geselecteerde topscriptie beschrijft de wordingsgeschiedenis van de Spitzenkandidaten-innovatie. 'This time, it's different', blokletterden affiches van het Europees Parlement in de aanloop naar de verkiezingen van 2014. Voorheen droegen de regeringsleiders in de Europese Raad een Commissievoorzitter voor, waarna het Parlement de kandidaat slechts kon goedkeuren of afwijzen. Dit keer zou het anders gaan, en zou de nominatie niet het resultaat moeten zijn van schimmige koehandel. De voornaamste politieke fracties in het Parlement kozen ieder een lijsttrekker, een Spitzenkandidat, en spraken af alleen de winnende kandidaat te accepteren als voorzitter van de Europese Commissie. Dat zou meer transparantie moeten opleveren en de belangstelling voor de parlementsverkiezingen moeten vergroten. De "coup" was succesvol. Ondanks tegenstand van diverse lidstaten, met name van het Verenigd Koninkrijk van David Cameron, werd Jean-Claude Juncker, de kandidaat van de Europese Volkspartij, voorgedragen door de Europese Raad en gekozen door het Europees Parlement. Artikel 17(7) van het Verdrag betreffende de Europese Unie, waar de benoemingsprocedure in is geregeld, was ongewijzigd gebleven. Desondanks was de rol van de Europese Raad in het nominatieproces sterk verminderd, ten faveure van het Europees Parlement. Een kleine institutionele revolutie had plaatsgevonden. Deze scriptie beschrijft de wordingsgeschiedenis van de Spitzenkandidaten-innovatie en beschouwt de procedure door het prisma van constitutionele conventies. Betoogd wordt dat de procedure op dit moment een broze conventie vormt. Verdere wijzigingen zijn evenwel noodzakelijk om ervoor te zorgen dat de ontwikkeling daadwerkelijk bijdraagt aan parlementaire democratie op het niveau van de Europese Unie. Zonder dergelijke veranderingen komen de kracht en consolidatie van de conventie in gevaar, en kan de nieuwe procedure er zelfs toe leiden dat er nog meer vraagtekens worden gezet bij democratie op Europees niveau.

Understanding EU Internal Market

Provides a detailed analysis of the objectives, principles and methods of EU Internal Market law. It focuses on the substantive law of the Internal Market, the strongest, most developed and most original part of EU law. The authors introduce the reader to the legal peculiarities of EU Internal Market Law: its sources, instruments, methods of interpretation, effects, and the relationship between Union and national law (Introductory Chapter). They also acquaint the reader with the acquis communautaire: the case law of the European Courts and secondary EU legislation. From this starting point the book takes the reader to the issue of personal application of EU law: from being only a law for market citizens (individuals acting in the market) EU law has become the law for all citizens and residents living in Member States (whether they are active market participants or not). Thus, EU law determines everybody's everyday rights and duties alongside (and occasionally overriding) existing national law (Chapter I). This is based on the principle of equal treatment. What follows is an analysis of the original liberal esprit des lois of EU law, the opening and keeping open of markets through the free movement rules (Chapter II) and competition and IP rules (Chapter III). The current trend of setting adequate standards – most important the horizontal standards, applying to everybody (such as non-discrimination and fundamental rights) – is discussed as well. (Chapter IV). A special chapter is devoted to autonomy since the generous, but not unlimited grant of autonomy (Chapter V) to the market citizen must be respected by Member States and fellow market citizens. Finally the question of accountability and liability of the Union itself, of its Member States, of undertakings and of citizens is discussed as well (Chapter VI).

Handboek Luchtrecht

Weergave van een studie van internationale en Europese verdragen, verordeningen, nationale wetten en regels, betrekking hebbend op het luchtruimgebruik. Hoe wordt er omgegaan met de intensivering van de 'traffic' in de lucht en hoe zijn toezicht en handhaving van het luchtruim geregeld? Aangezien door het toenemend gebruik de kans op ongelukken met schade en/of letsel aan gebouwen, personen, goederen en dieren zal toenemen, krijgt ook het aansprakelijkheids-/verzekeringsvraagstuk aandacht. Evenals het privacy-aspect aangezien met onbemande luchtvaartuigen audiovisuele opnamen en foto's worden gemaakt en controle kan worden uitgeoefend op burgers. Hoe wordt dit geregeld en gewaarborgd? Om die reden wordt ook ingegaan op de vraag hoe dit rechtsgebied zich verhoudt tot andere rechtsgebieden, als privacyrecht, aansprakelijkheids- verzekeringsrecht, eigendomsrecht, bouwrecht.
